New township building inspector on the lookout

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

DeWitt Avenue, Greenwich Street, Hornblower Avenue, Jorammon Street, Prospect Street, Van Houten Place, the list goes on and on...

Residents of Belleville are watching their township become an eyesore. "The property owners are responsible," said Joseph Fornarotto, building maintenance inspector. "We cannot ignore deteriorating dwellings, broken-down cars without plates or registration, yet you will find these conditions on every other block in Belleville."

Fornarotto held the position of building maintenance inspector for three years before his retirement, but has returned to keep an eye on those who believe they are above the law.

"The reason we have a maintenance ordinance is to protect the citizens," Fornarotto said. "Kids can get into these cars and hurt themselves. If a car fire starts, kids could damage surrounding homes as well."

An ordinance has been approved to establish standards of property maintenance within Belleville for the protection of public safety. The ordinance states: "The exterior of the premises, the exterior of dwelling structures and the condition of accessory structures shall be maintained so that the appearance of the premises and all buildings thereon shall reflect a level of maintenance in keeping with the residential standards of the neighborhood, and such that the appearance of the premises and structures shall not constitute a blighting — an impairing or frustrating influence — factor for adjoining property owners, nor an element leading to the progressive deterioration of the neighborhood."

The ordinance states property maintenance encompasses the following: "Storage of commercial and industrial material, which means, there shall not be stored equipment and materials relating to business, commercial or industrial uses, unless permitted under the zoning ordinance for the premises."

This includes "any current unregistered and/or uninspected motor vehicles shall not be parked on any property in a residential district and at no time shall a said vehicle be in any state of major disassembly, disrepair or shall it be in the process of being stripped or dismantled. At no time shall any vehicle of any type undergo major overhaul, including body work, in a residential district."

The second category in the ordinance is general maintenance. This states: "The exterior of every structure or accessory structure not inherently resistant to decay, including fences, shall be maintained in good repair and all surfaces thereof shall be painted or otherwise provided with a protective coating sufficient to protect structural deteriorating and to maintain appearance. The same shall be maintained free of broken glass, loose shingles, crumbling stone or brick, excessive deterioration or inadequate maintenance to the end that the property itself may be preserved, safety and fire hazards eliminated, and adjoining properties and neighborhood be protected from blighting influences."

"We have the strongest building maintenance code around," Fornarotto said. "I send violators two warnings and then they are given a summons. By sending the first two letters, I am showing people that I am trying not to be pain in the neck."

"Once the summons is issued, a

'The reason we have a maintenance ordinance is to protect the citizens.'
— Joseph Fornarotto

judge can fine someone anywhere from $100 to $1,000," he added.

The dilemma is not restricted to specific areas, although the Valley appears to be the worse. Abandoned or inoperable automobiles, and declining residences are spreading through Belleville like a plague.

"The problem isn't finding these cars and homes cluttered with debris, the problem is cleaning up the neighborhood," said Fornarotto. "I have to admit that most people comply with the ordinance. Unfortunately many do not know about the ordinance."

"However, there are those who ignore the warnings. I do not understand them," Fornarotto said. "I send a letter out the first 10 days, and then an additional one 10 days later. That gives people 20 days to rectify the situation."

The process is simple — Fornarotto surveys the township, notes the properties in violation of the ordinance, goes to the tax assessor's office and finds the block and lot number, and sends a copy of the ordinance to those in violation.

Enforcing the process is arduous. "The point is if they ignore the ordinance, something has to be done," said Fornarotto. "If I renege on my responsibilities as building maintenance inspector, things will pile up and get worse."

"This problem is not just on side blocks, it is on many main streets," Fornarotto said. "What will people think as they drive into Belleville and see a rotting garage or an abandoned car? We have to solve this problem."

Council kicks butts!

Smoking banned, vendors mad

By Paul O'Keefe
Associate Editor

Machine politics dominated the Belleville Township Council meeting Tuesday as retailers and cigarette vendors protested the proposed elimination of cigarette machines in Belleville.

The attempt to ban cigarette machines was tabled in lieu of discussions with machine owners as to installing lock-out devices to prevent minors from purchasing smokes.

A companion ordinance that bans smoking in municipal buildings and vehicles was approved by the council, drawing little opposition.

Mayor Jim Messina favored the ordinance at first, but voted against it after his suggestion for designated smoking areas was rejected.

"I work a lot in Township Hall, and will probably be the first one fined $100," Messina joked.

Mild opposition to the ban on smoking in township buildings and vehicles was countered by the ordinance's sponsor, Deputy Mayor Tom Spillane.

Spillane argued that lawsuits are being filed by smokers who seek damages because businesses allowed them to smoke on the job, endangering their health.

The attempt to ban machines ran into stiff opposition, however, even from non-smokers present at the meeting.

Five vending machine representatives from North Jersey attended the meeting to speak out in favor of lock-out devices.

An equal number of store owners from Belleville came to protest the ordinance, which included a ban on counter displays that place cigarettes in reach of customers.

The displays earn money for retailers from cigarette companies.

Store owners complained they did not sell cigarettes to minors, and that singling out cigarettes was unfair.

"We have been trying to get rolling papers off store shelves for years. Aren't we doing this kind of backwards? What is the use of getting rid of vending machines when 16-year-olds can buy rolling papers to smoke pot?" asked Judy Piscatowski.

Former Deputy Mayor Mario Drozd, a non-smoker, also opposed the machine ban as well as prohibiting smoking in vehicles by lone employees.

Drozd asked why cigarette machines were being targeted by the council when go-go bars and X-rated video stores seemed to be able to do business unmolested.

The machine ban was tabled by a 4-3 vote, after Councilman Victor Canning, who stated he "detested" smoking, agreed that vendors should be allowed to demonstrate lock-out devices.

Messina, Canning, Gerald Digori and Bill Cook supported the tabling.

In other business, former Commissioner Vincent Frantantoni asked for an accounting that would justify township employees taking over the recycling collection that had been done by handicapped workers from the Occupational Center.

"The Occupational Center, you took jobs away from the handicapped," Frantantoni said.

"When you add up the purchase of a truck, the overtime and everything else, how does that compare to the $104,000 spent now with no headaches, no worries and giving handicapped people jobs?" he added.

The township took over collection when certain recyclables increased in value.

Messina stated his opinion that collection would generate revenue in a few months.

Both Cook and Canning also called for better mercantile license applications during the meeting.

Citizens wanted by Nutley Police Dec. 6

By Jim Van Blarcom

Nutley Police Department urges township residents to join them Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. for a town hall meeting — "Public Perceptions of the Police."

The two-hour meeting will provide an opportunity for residents to voice any criticism, praise, questions or concerns about Nutley police and procedures directly to Chief Robert De Litta and his command staff. Public safety issues will also be addressed.

"This is about the fourth or fifth time we have held this type of 'open-door' meeting — we try to have one every quarter. Considering recent publicity showing law enforcement in a bad light both locally and throughout the country, the meeting provides an open forum to discuss issues," said Sgt. Steven Rogers of Nutley Police Community Relations Unit.

"It is also an opportunity to dispell any rumors that might have surfaced about law enforcement techniques."

"People are welcome to come and address the panel, or if they choose to remain anonymous, they can write down any question or comment on index cards that we will distribute and their concerns will be handled in the manner in which they were received."

According to Rogers, the town hall meetings have become increasingly popular and have prompted him to recommend them to other departments in the state through the New Jersey Community Police Association.

"Nutley is the only town in the state with this program, it is unique. Other towns can follow our example. The meetings allow for the accountability of our department to the taxpayer," Rogers said. "We have recieved some criticism in the past, but what we have seen over the past few meetings is continual praise for our public safety initiatives."

"We want to assure residents that every issue that arises out of the meeting will receive attention within 24 hours," concluded Rogers.

The meeting will be in the council chambers within town hall. Telephone De Litta or Rogers at 284-4940 for information.

Codes need more attention

The appeal of Belleville is directly related to the consistency with which the building code is enforced. Two years of this newspaper's highlighting problems with code enforcement has yielded little result.

A building maintenance inspector has been added as a part-time position, which is good. The number of complaints about possible illegally converted multi-dwelling homes that have gone uninvestigated or ignored has gotten out of hand.

Specific addresses have been brought to the Township Council's attention during public meetings. One glaring example of an illegal conversion drew several inspections at the direction of the township manager.

The code enforcement official reported to the manager that this property was a single-family residence. The downside to this report is measured by the fact that this dwelling has two electric meters, was scheduled to have a third, and has renters inside of varied ethnicity. Certainly, one family is not occupying the dwelling.

If code enforcement does not perform its job, then taxes become unfairly distributed, illegal students attend Belleville schools, and fire safety hazards multiply.

Board of Education Trustee Frank Montagna has done a first rate service of hammering away at illegal residences during council meetings. Montagna recently attempted to get the Board of Education to write a letter of complaint to the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, asking that body to investigate code enforcement.

The Township Council cannot do much to force an honest appraisal of property use by code enforcement. The township relies on the honesty of the individual doing the inspections.

Nor can the township manager do more than order an inspection, and if the inspector says a property is OK, the manager can only take it at face value.

Belleville is not getting its due service from code enforcement. The state Department of Community Affairs should be asked to investigate code enforcement. Too many complaints for too long a time have been put on record. The strain on township services caused by illegally converted dwellings is beginning to show. Belleville needs a full accounting of how this department has performed.

Imagine the lawsuit against Belleville if an illegally converted dwelling catches fire, and damage and death occur. That code enforcement looked the other way could be an expensive liability.

In the meantime, Belleville needs more of what Councilman Gerald Digori introduced, an ordinance requiring a certificate of occupancy before any dwelling is sold. This good idea could be undermined by bad enforcement of code.

Success shows district knows how to spend

The upcoming evaluation of Belleville High School by the Middle States Association would appear to be redundant at best.

What area high school can boast the recent achievements at all levels by Belleville High School?

Good news announced during the past year at Belleville Board of Education meetings has desensitized the reading public. Face it, we are becoming jaded!

Four seniors were accepted by Oxford, Richard Ruffalo drew the highest national recognition for his impressive achievements, the band has chalked up a noteworthy season, Michael Perna flattened the wrestling opposition in Atlantic City, the tennis courts and stadium got needed attention, the residency committee went from grassroots to full Board of Education status... the list goes on and on.

This is the product of many years of work, back to the days of Superintendent Michael Nardiello. Something has to be going right to compile a record like this.

Citizens, students, teachers and administrators deserve our thanks and recognition. No one group deserves more praise than the other.

Bel View

By Paul O'Keefe
Associate Editor

Look for what is coming as well. Board Trustee John Nitati has initiated a speech course that appears on target for 1996.

This is the type of course usually found at prep schools. Debate, extemporaneous speaking and presentations will be taught in the course.

Few courses mean as much to a student's future as does speech. In the old days, Latin, English and rhetoric were considered core education. A Belleville student can look forward to being able to receive this type of classical education.

Trustee Robert Molinaro has been pushing for better computer access technology. A recent donation of $180,000 worth of computer equipment dove-tailed nicely with Molinaro's quest.

Enter Middle States. Will these observers really see how much Belleville High School has achieved?

Principal Joseph Petrillo dropped a hint during a recent Board of Education meeting.

Petrillo noted that Middle States will not tell Belleville how to spend its money, but it will say where money needs to be spent.

The principal appeared to think that the observers will want more spent on media services, which used to be known as the school library.

Back in the 1960s, Middle States faulted Belleville on its physical plant. The result was the new high school building.

That was an expensive observation for Belleville by this private organization.

Should Middle States come in and find fault with Belleville High School for its library, locker rooms, or even cafeteria, does this translate into radical changes in spending to get the coveted accreditation?

You bet it does. Despite mountains of hard evidence of success, a failure to get Middle States kudos means more money will have to be spent.

Each particular achievement will fall to the wayside should this group flunk the high school. Ruffalo, Oxford, speech classes, wrestling, physical improvements, and strong community support could be outweighed by a need to improve media services.

What criteria are most important to the reader's evaluation of a school? Most would look to how well students perform and what they do after graduation. A few of the categories listed in the Middle States evaluation have little or no importance in the minds of anybody but career educators.

Middle States should evaluate the school on how well it produces, and Belleville High School has an exceptional record at that.

Should this group fault Belleville for some picayune flaw such as media services, then reality dictates that Middle States Association, not Belleville High School, needs to earn accreditation.

No difference can really be made between telling Belleville what to spend, and saying where it should be spent. A class in rhetoric would make that clear.

If the school is producing clear successes like this high school, who is anyone to say Belleville does not know how to spend?

Unique faiths promote continued debate

H.L. Mencken must have felt the way I did when he witnessed the trial of John Scopes 70 years ago in Tennessee. All that was missing was Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan. Charles Darwin took the heat last Tuesday in a mock trial at Bloomfield College the same way that Scopes did all those years ago.

As I sat in the back of the room, listening to questions posed to witnesses by both sides, I couldn't help but be impressed by the "lawyers." They may have been randomly selected, and I did not know their personal beliefs on creation or evolution, but these students did their best to come up with tough questions.

I smiled to myself when one of the prosecutors, in her reading of her team's opening statement, said the theory of evolution was created by "atheistic people." "Atheist" is one of the many labels that I have been slapped with in the time that I began voicing my opinion on matters of politics and religion.

However, Charles Pellegrino, whose testimony I was impressed with, cleared the air by proclaiming that he was an "agnostic," and pointing out the difference between agnosticism and atheism. Atheism is the absolute denial of the existence of God or any supreme being; agnosticism is an attitude of ambiguity. While the atheist would say "There is no God," the agnostic would say, "I am not sure whether or not there is a God," or, "There is no evidence to support God's existence."

As I listened to the proceedings, I paused to remember that these debates continue today. As late as 1992, parents and school officials in a California town hotly debated whether or not the Biblical story of creation should be taught as fact, or if Darwin's theories should be taught in compromise of matters of faith.

I decline to project a verdict at this time. By the time this column is printed, I will have attended two sessions of the trial. Therefore, it would be unfair of me to presume anything.

Despite what the verdict may be, the true value of this mock trial is its emphasis on critical thinking. I just finished a book by entertainer Steve Allen called "Dumbbith, and 81 Ways That Americans Can Improve Their Thinking." In the book, Allen writes a scathing indictment on the state of modern education, with its lack of emphasis on critical thinking, and prescribes ways to improve thought.

These days, critical thinking is out of vogue. With the plagues of political correctness, inflexible religious dogmas, and preconceived notions, critical thinking is favored in few areas.

In light of this mock trial, which drew the attention of The Star-Ledger as well as other newspapers, the question of whether or not the scientific community and Americans, religious and secular alike, will ever come to some sort of consensus begs to be answered.

My feeling is that we will never come to a consensus on a matter that deals in equal amounts of emotion, faith and science. People of all faiths will continue to stress their faith's own version of creation; secularists and humanists will continue to point to scientific evidence, or lack thereof, to answer eternal questions about the origins of life. We can only hope that the debate continues.

A lewd definition

To the editor:

From the enclosed clipping of the Nov. 22 police blotter, since you do not approve of Webster's spelling of the word that means "obscene" or "salacious," let me alphabetize a baker's dozen for you to choose from in the future:

Lewed, as in lewed; lewd, as in shrewd (Webster); Lewed, as in brewed, chewed, or screwed; liewed, as in viewed; loed, as in canoed or shoed; lood, as in food or mood; loeed, as in boeed, tatoeed, or woood; loohed, as in pooh-pooheed; lou'd, as in you'd; loused, as in rendezvoused; lude, as in nude or rude; lued, as in fued, glued, or sued; luted, as in debuted.

I share your sense of loss at the passing of Mr. Roemmele.

Never forget

To the editor:

Since Nov. 11, 1918, this day was known as Armistice Day in observance of the end of World War II.

By congressional action in 1954, this day was changed from Armistice Day to Veterans Day.

Let us never forget to tell new generations why the war was fought and how we snatched freedom from the jaws of tyrants.

Books possess countless, unlocked treasures

My mother traveled to New Orleans during the 1940s with friends, and happened to stop at a used book store.

She purchased an old edition of "Boccaccio's Decameron," a milestone in western literature.

"Decameron" was racy for its time, a collection of short stories written in Italian rather than Latin. It earned Boccaccio no small amount of condemnation.

That condemnation provided a good deal of free publicity for the author, a trick imitated today by less important people like Madonna, Prince and Shannon Doherty.

Many of us had to read Geoffrey Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" in high school. Chaucer and Boccaccio lived during the same time, although Chaucer may have been about 30 years younger.

"Decameron" and "Canterbury Tales" are collections of short stories within the framework of a larger tale. Chaucer used a pilgrimage as his setting for the individual pilgrims to relate stories. Boccaccio used the plague to set up his group of storytellers. They had gone into seclusion to avoid infection and amused themselves with stories.

The volume of "Decameron" purchased by my mother came to my attention while moving her to Montclair.

The publication date was MDCLXXXIV — 1684.

"Printed for Awnsam Churchhill at the Black Swan at Amen Corner," the frontpiece read.

Think what America was like in 1684. The Mayflower had landed a mere 44 years earlier.

The first English edition of "Decameron" was in 1620 as far as I

Old Books

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

could research. The 1684 edition calls it the fifth edition. Whether that meant the fifth edition by that company or the fifth English edition I do not know.

I attempted to do a bibliography of "Decameron" to find out. None of the lists I could find mentioned Black Swan or Amen Corner.

Nor could I find Awnsam Churchhill mentioned. More confusion came from the introduction.

Although the publishing date is 1684, the introduction is addressed to Sir Philip Herbert at the coronation of James II.

James was crowned in 1685, one year after the publishing date.

Philip V of Spain, first of the House of Bourbon, was 2 years old when the book was printed. George Washington would not be born until 48 years later.

God alone knows what travels this edition of "Decameron" has made. When did it come to America? As printed books were still somewhat of a novelty in 1684, especially entertainment literature, what person had originally owned the work? Was it hidden away from fear of being thought pornographic in those years of religious war?

A portrait of Boccaccio adorns the frontpiece, but his first name is rendered Joannes Bocatius.

I wonder how the publisher settled on that spelling. "Bocatius" is, of course, a crude Latinization of Boccaccio. "Joannes" seem more Germanic, and German was a root of English that may have seen usages survive into the 17th century.

The author's visage is stern, his head turned to the side and his eyes darting the viewer's.

Certainly this is not the portrait of the romantic Boccaccio as he really appeared. This was the friend of Petrarch, the great poet. Boccaccio was the champion of vernacular who is the true starting point of Italian literature as opposed to classical.

This portrayal makes the writer appear more like Martin Luther or John Calvin, a great thinker rather than a great writer.

The introduction to this edition promotes the historical value of the work rather than its bawdy, human approach to literature.

In the heady days of the Reformation, when England was in the restoration years after Cromwell's passing, this book was printed.

The publisher seems to have wanted to deflect any Puritan, Calvinist or Catholic moralist from pointing out the racism of Boccaccio's work. This was a "historical" piece, not for prurient entertainment.

How many more stories could this book tell if we could trace the different owners, their varying views, their particular faults? Did somebody have to hide this book from his wife or her husband, lest accusations of lewdness be made?

Was it sitting on the shelf of a Southern plantation during the Civil War, or did it come to America later with a hopeful immigrant?

How many more stories does this edition keep hidden that we will never know?

Chorus to perform at St. Valentine church

The Chorus of Communities, an Essex County Ecumenical Choral Society, presents its sixth annual charity Advent Chorale of Antonio Vivaldi's "Gloria" and "The Song of Christmas" by Roy Ringwald Sunday at 3 p.m. in St. Valentine Catholic Church, East Passaic and Hoover avenues, Bloomfield. Five area soloists will participate.

"Gloria" is translated and edited by Clayton Westerman and was a composition written by Antonio Vivaldi during his life, 1669-1741, probably in the early 1700s. This Italian violin player and composer often known as the "red priest" — probably because of his flaming red hair — was a very prolific musician. He composed more than 40 operas beside many cantatas and sacred works. Vivaldi is probably known best for his development of the concerti grossi style of music. Bach is said to have copied and rewritten a number of pieces from Vivaldi.

"The Songs of Christmas" compiled by Ringwald for the "Fred Waring Television Show" in the 1950s was excerpted from 20 carols and songs in the Christmas tradition. For example, the first piece "Adoramus Te" is an old liturgical prayer prob-ly written by Palestrina in the mid-15th century. "Strange sight within a Stable Old" is a Cologne 15th century hymn. Other tunes included are from "A Cappella Praise for Christmas" and "A Season for Alleluias" written in 1994 by Tom Fetke.

Included in the charity performance will be Joseph Cahill, popular area soloist from St. Peter's Catholic Church in Belleville, who will render "I Wonder as I Wander" by John Jacob Niles, while William Schoppe from Grace Lutheran Church in Toms River will sing "Qui Sedes ad Dexteram" in addition to the well-known Vivaldi duet "Laudamus Te" with Jennifer Loven from Bethany Lutheran Church, Belleville.

Loven will also be a soloist in several Vivaldi numbers in addition to singing the lead in chorus' speciality quartet and double quartet Katherine Zipf a soprano from Oakwood Baptist Church in Kearny, accompanied by the double quartet will sing "Mary did You Know." Contralto Taylor Fisher from Church of the Advent in Bloomfield will contribute "Domine Dei, Agnus Dei" from "Gloria" and will sing with the ensembles.

The chorus, representing 23 church choirs in the area, will shape the well-known all Latin Vivaldi sections of "Propter Magnam Gloriam" and "Cum Sancto Spiritum" as a necessary part of this challenging musical work. Others in the ensembles are from Nutley, North Arlington, Belleville, Glen Ridge, Clifton, Jersey City, Cranford, East Orange, Montclair, Newark, Livingston, Summit and Lyndhurst. In addition, the chorus will present some new a capella compositions designed to invite the audience into the Christmas spirit.

As has been the chorus' tradition at Christmas, the audience will be invited to sing the final piece George Frederick Handel's "Hallelujah" Chorus from the Messiah and Christmas carols celebrating the birth of our saviour.

Italian Aces help needy with Thanksgiving food

The Young Italian-American Aces Club of Unico National provided Thanksgiving baskets to needy families in Belleville, Bloomfield and St. John the Baptist Home for Girls in Newark.

This year the Aces Club received assistance from its sponsoring chapter Belleville UNICO, Nutley ShopRite and Brookdale ShopRite.

The ACES president, Art Grutt, a student at Seton Hall Prep, was successful in getting a 100 percent participation from this year's members.

He is hoping to attract more young Italian-Americans from UNICO District II which includes Belleville, Bloomfield, Maplewood, Newark and Nutley.

Grutt and the Aces believe teenagers, especially Italian-Americans, are not portrayed in a positive light by television and motion picture industries.

UNICO has given the members of the ACES the chance to develop into good American citizens, making them proud of their heritage and giving them the opportunity to serve.

Anthony Carpinella, New Jersey District II governor from Maplewood, was extremely impressed with the ACES. Carpinella also accompanied the ACES in delivering their baskets.

He pledged his support in any of their future endeavors. Belleville chapter president Eugene Antonio hopes UNICO will not only attract these young Aces as members but their parents as well.

Italian-Americans interested in learning more about Aces membership can phone Dr. Emanuele Alfano at 429-2818.

Men and women 18 years and older interested in joining or learning more about UNICO should contact George and Theresa Salzano at 680-0448.

Nutley aiming for state championship

Raider grid squad to face West Morris on Saturday

By Matt Franklin
Sports Editor

The 1995 season has already been a success for the Nutley High School football team, as a powerful offense has combined with an effective defense to produce impressive results. The latest Nutley victory was a 34-0 win over Belleville on Thanksgiving Day, leaving the squad with a record of 8-2.

This Saturday, however, Nutley will seek to put an exclamation point on a fine season. That's when the Raiders will face West Morris for the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 championship, with the contest in Long Valley kicking off at 1 p.m.

This year's championship game is a rematch of the 1991 title contest, when West Morris came to Nutley and earned a 14-0 decision. The difference this time around is that the contest is in West Morris' backyard, with the Raiders hoping to return the favor.

As has been the case all season, the Nutley offense promises to be in the spotlight on Saturday. The Raiders have used a varied attack to score 254 points, an average of 25.4 points per contest.

West Morris (9-1), meanwhile, is hoping to keep the Nutley offense off the field as much as possible. The Highlanders will seek to do that with a ball-control offense, in contrast to the multi-faceted Nutley attack.

"It's two different offensive philosophies trying to get to the same point," said head coach Rich SanFillipo, who won a state title at Nutley in 1992. "They are very methodical, straightforward, smart and deliberate. They'll run as much as they can and hurt you with the occasional throw."

West Morris has used that offensive philosophy to good success, scoring 233 points on the season. The last three contests have been particularly sharp for the Highlanders, as they scored 112 points in that span. That includes a 24-0 victory over Shabazz in the first round of the playoffs.

"I think the ball-control philosophy can potentially hurt us, because it eats up the clock," said SanFillipo. "If we don't make the plays on defense, we can't get the ball back. It wouldn't be encouraging if they sustained long drives."

There are no big-name players on West Morris, as differing players have gained the spotlight each week. The Highlanders do have strong talent on offense, however, including halfback Scott Martorana, halfback Dave Rough, fullback Demetrious Tsepas and quarterback John Morris. Martorana was the key against Shabazz, rushing for 126 yards and one touchdown.

"Every game, someone different steps up," said West Morris coach Pete Piccirillo, who's in his 33rd year at the school. "It's not a case where a kid scores 125 points or rushes for 1,500 yards. We just don't have that."

Nutley, on the other hand, does have that talent in senior tailback Rob Carey. The 5-foot-11, 185-pound Carey has come through in a big way for the Raiders, scoring 18 touchdowns and rushing for over 1,000 yards. He scored two touchdowns in the 21-14 win over Phillipsburg in the first round of the playoffs.

Carey keys the ground game, but Nutley can also use the passing attack thanks to senior quarterback Craig McCann. McCann, in his first year as a varsity starter, has thrown for 15 touchdowns and run the offense to perfection. His favorite targets have been Joe DeMaestro, Sean Nicol and promising sophomore Brent Womroth.

"Nutley is a very good team," said Piccirillo, who also won a state title in 1982. "Rich has done a real good job with them. They execute very well, and the offense is very balanced."

Both Nutley and West Morris use different offenses, but there are similarities between the two squads. The main similarity is the linemen, as both schools depend upon the grit and determination of undersized players. In fact, most of the linemen on both schools average in the area of 180 pounds.

The lack of size on the line hasn't prevented either defense from enjoying fine campaigns, however. The West Morris defense, in particular, has been remarkable, allowing just 37 points while recording six shutouts.

"They're always in the right spots," said SanFillipo. "They try to take away the run first. They have excellent overall team speed."

The Nutley defense has also excelled, and that's been as much a reason as any for the team's success. After allowing over 21 points per contest during 1994, the Raiders have cut that down to just 9.4 points per game this season.

For both Nutley and West Morris, however, all the statistics can be thrown out the window come Saturday. Both squads have enjoyed superb campaigns, but only one can wear a state crown Saturday night.

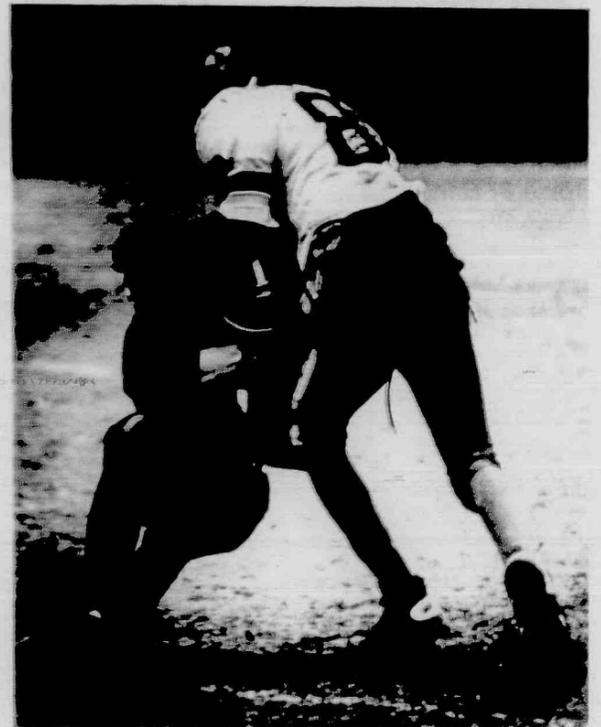

The one major advantage for West Morris is the home field, where a large group of supporters are likely to turn out. However, that's no guarantee of victory, as the state title game in 1991 is proof of it.

"We've won some big games on the road," said SanFillipo. "I think, after the initial shock of starting there, we'll get right into the flow of the game."

EXTRA POINTS — McCann threw three touchdown passes in the Thanksgiving Day win over Belleville (0-0). The prized senior threw scoring strikes of seven yards to Womroth, 55 yards to Carey and 60 to DeMaestro as the Raiders cruised to victory.

"We weren't sharp, but we did what we had to do," said SanFillipo. "The good thing is that it gives us nine days for the kids to head up."

Carey added a 100-yard scoring run, while backup QB Frank Cozzolino threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to Mike Avzato in the final quarter. The win allowed Nutley to increase its series edge over Belleville to 34-18-5.

Nutley's Joe DeMaestro cradles the ball as Tyree Huffin of Belleville makes the tackle during Thanksgiving Day contest. Raiders triumphed, 34-0, in Nutley.

Nutley's talented trio named to girls' soccer team

By Rick Bliwise
Assistant Sports Editor

The mark of a good team in any sport is the ability to make it through a time of adversity and still be able to bounce back and make a run for a championship.

This fall, that was the case for the Bloomfield High School girls' soccer team. Despite the absence for several games of one of the team's key performers, senior sweeper Jodi Baumgardner, the Bengals continued to play strong soccer. Then, after Baumgardner returned to the lineup (though at a new position at fullback), Bob Mayer's team went to gain a share of the ECT championship with Caldwell. On a cold early November afternoon at New Jersey Tech in Newark, the Bengals battled favored Caldwell to a scoreless tie.

The Bengals showed they were ready to take on Caldwell when they bounced the 1994 county champs, Columbia, 2-0, in the semifinals. Michelle Reilly, a brilliant sophomore forward, had one of the big BHS goals in that one.

"We had a good group returning so I think the kids were pretty confident throughout the season," said Mayer, who last spring guided the Bengals to the ECT softball championship over Mount St. Dominic. "But I think the really impressive thing was that so many kids stepped up for us at critical points in the year."

"When Jodi was on the sidelines with an injury, Jenette Hendrickson switched to sweeper and showed great leadership at that spot. She's such a versatile athlete and believe me, we lost nothing when she moved from center midfield to sweeper. We had a number of standouts on our squad this year but I don't think anyone played a bigger role than Jenette. I think in her varsity career here she played five positions on the field, and did a great job at each of them."

Hendrickson, Baumgardner, Reilly and goalie Moe Eineker are the Bloomfield selections on The 1995 Worrall Community Newspapers All-Area Girls' Soccer Team. Rounding out a very strong unit are Columbia's Rachel Bernstein, Heather Egan and Nicki Martelli, West Orange's Mandi Krimmel, and a talented trio from Nutley, Alicia Hudnett, Jen Yanuzzelli and Janine Scafaria.

Here are the 1995 first-team selections:

MOE EINEKER, Bloomfield: The talented senior came on to have a top year for the Bengals and was particularly tough in tournament play. The youngster barely allowed over a goal per game and ended the campaign with nine shutouts, a school record.

"One of the things which particularly impressed me about her play was just how competitive she was," explained Mayer. "I can recall several spectacular diving saves that Moe made for us, and all of them seemed to be in the big ballgames."

JODI BAUMGARDNER, Bloomfield: Baumgardner's best sport is softball, where she excels at backstop, but the determined youngster isn't too bad in soccer, either. Few athletes, if any, play with more intensity.

"She just refuses to get beat on a play," said Mayer, who is expected to have one of the state's top softball squads next spring. "I think one of her top qualities was how effective she was on throw-ins. But just her presence in the lineup alone gives a tremendous lift to all the other players on the field, and that was very evident in the county championship game."

RACHEL BERNSTEIN, Columbia: The youngster did a superb job in the back for the Cougars, helping to lead Steve Jones' squad to a respectable 12-7-3 mark which included a clutch victory over Bloomfield in the Group 4 state tournament. A great marking back, the aggressive Bernstein sparked for CHS at both stopper and sweeper during her remarkable varsity career.

ALICIA HUDNETT, Nutley: The senior was an unsung performer for the Raiders but came in and game out, did a fine job for coach Don Tobey at fullback. A three-year starter, the steady youngster never missed a minute of action this fall.

"She was always working as hard as possible on the field," remarked Tobey, whose team came up with a pair of 1-1 ties against Bloomfield.

"When we played Bloomfield, I thought she did a strong job of containing Reilly, who was their big gun. And with everything else, Alicia was like an assistant coach on the field and had tremendous respect from all of her teammates."

JEN YANUZZELLI, Nutley: The junior did a superb job at sweeper for the Raiders and was the backbone of a strong defense. Yanuzzelli frustrated Nutley's opponents because of her great speed and aggressive style of play. And she also had the ability to contribute on offense.

"I think playing some good club soccer really did a lot to help Jen develop her game," said Tobey. "If she continues to progress in the sport, she really could be something in her senior season."

MANDI KRIMMEL, West Orange: The Mountaineers struggled for much of the year but Krimmel still managed to do a fine job for coach Cathy Welter at sweeper. The youngster was a very aggressive player in the back and never let up for a single moment, even if West Orange was down by several goals in a particular game.

JENETTE HENDRICKSON, Bloomfield: The Bengals finished up at 13-6-3 and Hendrickson's outstanding play at both center-midfield and sweeper was the key. In so many of Bloomfield's big games, Hendrickson turned out to be the top performer for the Bengals. The youngster, who also excels in basketball and softball, scored five goals and dished off for 11 assists.

"It goes without saying that Jenette has exceptional skills," said Mayer. "But what impresses me just as much is her tremendous knowledge of the sport."

HEATHER EGAN, Columbia: Egan, along with her sister, Meredith, an outstanding defender, formed the top sibling act in the local area this fall. Meredith had eight shutouts and Heather's strong play at center-midfield helped keep that effort. The junior showed many impressive skills on the field, and was particularly effective in the air.

"I can't say enough about the job Heather did for us this year at center midfield," said Jones. "She had some big saves to fill because, through graduation, we lost our outstanding player at that spot in Mary Meade. Heather proved to be a tireless worker, was a great tackler, and even contributed to our offense with some clutch goals."

JANNINE SCAFARIA, Nutley: The senior, a three-year starter, did a fine job at center-midfield for the Raiders. Like Yanuzzelli, Scafaria improved her game by playing club soccer, and as a result, the youngster became Nutley's field general. The senior pumped home five goals and also had three assists.

"It was very impressive with the way she distributed the ball," said Tobey. "What also made an impression on me was her great knowledge of the game."

NICKI MARTELLI, Columbia: Despite being hampered by a broken toe, the senior forward still managed to produce for the Cougars. Martelli, a very skilled performer, scored 10 goals and also had six assists.

"A key for Nicki was that she seemed to see the entire field so well," remarked Jones. "I'm constantly had to watch her because she had the uncanny ability to score from just about anywhere. Her most impressive goal of the season was probably against Randolph, when she connected on a 35-yard bullet."

MICHELLE REILLY, Bloomfield: Reilly combined with senior Amber Hemmer to give Bloomfield one of the best 1-2 scoring punches in the county. Reilly netted 17 goals and had five assists, while Hemmer contributed 11 goals and eight assists.

"What helps Michelle a lot is that she's so quick out there," said Mayer. "And another nice thing about her game is that she's very good in the air."

A look back at '91 contest

When Nutley takes on West Morris in the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 state championship game on Saturday afternoon, Raider fans will be hoping that the contest isn't a repeat of the 1991 championship tilt between the two clubs. In that one, West Morris topped Nutley, 14-0, in Nutley.

During the first half, it was a pure defensive struggle as neither side mounted a serious scoring threat. But West Morris took the opening kickoff in the second half and marched 82 yards to paydirt as the well-executed drive covered 12 plays. The touchdowns came when West Morris senior fullback Tobin Barkman plunged over from the one.

Barkman was one of the big stories in the contest because in the opening half he had been stymied by the tough Nutley defense, gaining only eight yards in four attempts. But in the second half, the youngster picked up 71 yards in 17 attempts.

West Morris, which won its only other playoff title back in 1982, scored its other TD early in the fourth quarter as Barkman again plunged over from the one. Late in the game Nutley had a nice drive going, but the Raiders were stopped when it counted by the aggressive West Morris defense.

Nutley quarterback Frank DeMaio had a decent afternoon, connecting on six of 11 tosses for 97 yards. But the youngster, who would lead Nutley to a state title the following fall, felt pressure throughout the contest as he was sacked five times. Linebacker Chuck Grom and end Tom Fiorello were the take-charge guys for the West Morris defense. In all, NHS was held to just four first downs and 28 yards on the ground.

For the past few years, the Columbia High School girls' cross-country team had the luxury of relying on the talents of Hazel Clark Clark, one of the finest runners in Columbia history, captured three Essex County cross-country titles during her stellar career and helped the Cougars win two team championships.

This season, however, Columbia was forced to defend the county title without the services of Clark, who graduated in June. The Cougars had strong talent heading into the county race at Branch Brook Park in Newark, but the squad at Newark East Side was considered the favorite to win the county championship.

But even without a superstar in the lineup, Columbia won its third straight Essex County team title thanks to a superb team effort. The Cougars placed five runners in the top 12 at the county meet Nov. 3, edging past a talented East Side squad.

Columbia, which has a long history of success under head coach Len Klepack, leads the way on The 1995 Worrall Community Newspapers Girls' Cross-Country Team. The Cougars placed five runners on the first team, spotlighted by talented sophomores Dana Crocker, Catherine Casey and Natalie Deffenbaugh, along with junior Shawna McFadzean and senior Amy Stein.

The remaining runners on the squad include senior Modeyah Ford of Irvington and Nutley's Colleen Dougherty, Crocker, Ford and Dougherty are all repeat first-team selections.

Here are the first-team selections:
DANA CROCKER, Columbia: Crocker follows in the footsteps of a long line of talented Columbia runners. The sophomore led the Cougars at the county meet with a second-place showing in 21:32 at Branch Brook. Crocker also won seven of nine dual meets and was a first-team Iron Hills Conference selection.

CATHERINE CASEY, Columbia: Casey and Crocker, both sophomores, should give Columbia a potent one-two punch over the next few years. Casey finished fourth at the county meet, just 11 seconds behind Crocker, and was also a first-team Iron Hills Conference selection.

MODEYAH FORD, Irvington: A four-year letterwinner at Irvington, Ford distinguished herself as the finest female cross-country runner in school history. This season she won 12 dual meets and helped the girls' squad finish 9-4, the best ever record at the school.

AMY STEIN, Columbia: Another four-year letterwinner, Stein has been a reliable and consistent performer for the Cougars. This season Stein placed 11th at the county meet and gained first-team conference honors.

SHAWNA MCFADZEAN, Columbia: McFadzean turned in a solid performance at the county meet, finishing 10th overall. The junior should also be a top competitor this winter and spring in track and field.

NATALIE DEFFENBAUGH, Columbia: Another sophomore, Deffenbaugh added depth to a talented Cougar squad.

COLLEEN DOUGHERTY, Nutley: Dougherty, just a sophomore, is one of the more talented runners in Nutley history. She followed up a promising freshman season with another top campaign this year, finishing 14th at the county meet for head coach Ed Annett.

"She was almost a minute faster than last year," said Annett. "Her only poor race was in the sectional championships. Otherwise, she improved quite a bit."

Waste-to-Energy News

Fall 1995

A "Star" Is Born

American Ref-Fuel Company's Essex County Resource Recovery facility has been designated a "Star" facility by the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

Star site status, awarded only to facilities with the most effective safety programs in the country, means the Essex facility is permitted to manage its own workplace health and safety programs without routine scheduled inspections by the government agency. OSHA will reassess the site every three years to confirm it still meets OSHA's Voluntary Protection Program (VPP) criteria.

The American Ref-Fuel Essex County Resource Recovery Facility

Historically, VPP participant sites have from 60 to 80 percent fewer lost workday injuries than would be expected of an average site in their industries. Fewer than 200 of the 6 million worksites under OSHA regulation nationwide have been awarded Star status.

Under the VPP, the Essex plant staff performed a self-assessment to determine actions needed to meet OSHA's standards. Once identified, the actions had to be completed prior to submittal of a VPP application to OSHA's Region 2 office.

An on-site evaluation by OSHA followed. The evaluation culminated in the announcement that the plant had become only the third in the waste-to-energy industry to earn the coveted Star status, with the other two being American Ref-Fuel facilities in Hempstead, NY and Preston, CT. A fourth Ref-Fuel plant, acquired in 1993 and located in Niagara Falls, NY, has been recommended for Star status after completing the self-assessment and evaluation and is awaiting final OSHA determination.

"We're proud that our team at the Essex facility has maintained the highest standards of safety and excellence and that OSHA has recognized this outstanding achievement," said American Ref-Fuel Chairman Paul J. Varello. "The safety of our employees and of the community is of paramount importance to American Ref-Fuel and we believe that it is critical to our overall success as a company."

Ref-Fuel Essex Plant Wins Industry Award

The American Ref-Fuel Essex County Resource Recovery Facility, New Jersey's largest waste-to-energy plant, has received the 1995 Excellence Bronze Award from the Solid Waste Association of North America (SWANA).

The annual SWANA Awards Program recognizes organizations in the waste-to-energy industry whose systems and operations have achieved the highest level of performance. The program encourages the development of technically sound and economically feasible municipal solid waste systems that protect the public health and the environment.

In determining which facilities receive the awards, SWANA considers such factors as design, environmental performance, operational efficiency, safety, employee training, on-line availability and aesthetics.

The Ref-Fuel facility serves the disposal needs of the 22 municipalities in Essex County and other customers in the region. The plant has processed more than 4 million tons of waste since February of 1990, and has maintained an average on-line availability in excess of 96 percent and an environmental compliance record of 99.995 percent, assuring a safe and reliable means of disposal for the county.

The facility produces nearly 70 megawatts of electricity, enough to power 50,000 homes.

In its five-year history, the Essex plant has proven to be an effective complement to one of the nation's most aggressive recycling programs in Newark and Essex County.

A Step Toward Regional Waste Disposal

Alan Iantosca

We've been busy here at American Ref-Fuel since our last newsletter, and I'm happy to report that our efforts have achieved positive results. Our safety program has been recognized by the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) with its prestigious Star site designation. Our overall operational efficiency and effectiveness were honored by SWANA, an industry association. These two achievements are detailed in separate articles on page one.

Of course, we devote most of our energy and attention to our regular job: providing reliable and clean waste disposal for Essex County and other communities in the area. Since we do that every day, it's easy to forget the magnitude of an operation like this until you look at compiled statistics, like those in the box nearby.

We've also been very busy in the past few months working with the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) on our application for a permit to increase by about 8 percent the amount of waste we process at the plant. We expect the DEP to act on this application by the end of the year, and I'd like to explain what it means.

This proposed increase will help New Jersey better manage its own garbage in line with the state's goal of achieving solid waste self-sufficiency. A related application will clear the way for us to install a carbon injection system, at a cost of more than $1.5 million, for improved control of mercury emissions.

I want to emphasize that no construction or any physical change to the plant is involved in the application for greater capacity. It simply asks the DEP for a slight increase in the amount we're allowed to process. Plants like this operate most efficiently when they're running at full capacity. An engineering analysis that was performed as part of the permit application verified that the increase would cause no change to the Environmental Health and Impact Statement that was filed with the DEP when the plant was first built.

Right now, New Jersey exports about 2 million tons of garbage each year. We would contribute to the reduction of that amount if some of that waste were sent to our facility. If the DEP grants this capacity increase, it will assist the state and Essex County in making our plant truly a regional waste processing facility.

In 1993, Ref-Fuel and Essex County signed a revised agreement that gave the county the right to market the plant's capacity. Essex County has already concluded a 25-year agreement with Morris County and, through the efforts of the Essex County Utilities Authority, Essex is seeking long-term agreements with other counties in the region.

The expanded capacity will improve Essex County's ability to negotiate long-term agreements, resulting in economies of scale by sharing the common costs with other counties that will use the plant. That will help the state toward its goal of taking care of its own waste in a way that is consistent with New Jersey's regional approach to managing solid waste.

We believe we've proven over the past five years that we can provide a reliable, safe and clean method of solid waste disposal. We use state-of-the-art pollution control equipment and computer systems to meet New Jersey's rigorous environmental standards. Continuous testing shows our plant to be one of the most environmentally safe facilities of its kind in the country. Our plant has achieved a 99.995 percent environmental compliance record.

Mercury emissions are also a matter of great concern in Eastern industrial states. American Ref-Fuel was represented on a New Jersey mercury task force that studied the problem and recommended new, stricter limits on mercury emissions. Installing the carbon

Third Quarter Results

In calendar year 1995, through September 30, the American Ref-Fuel Essex County Resource Recovery Facility:

- Processed 680,225 tons of waste — enough to fill about 85,000 standard "packer" trucks that pick up residential garbage,
- Produced more than 352,000 megawatt hours of electricity, enough to power a city approximately the size of Paterson,
- Recovered and recycled 19,731 tons of ferrous metal (iron and steel), about 88 times the weight of the Statue of Liberty.

No Smoking — It's a Vapor Plume

Just as sure as leaves fall at this time of year, we start getting questions about what people see coming out of our stack. "What's that white smoke?" is how they usually put it.

Well, first of all, it's not smoke. It's water vapor, just like what you see coming out of your tea kettle at home — and it's not in any way harmful. Actually, it's there all the time, you just don't see it.

Here's how our Environmental Engineer, Marty Suchan, explains it: "The combustion process produces water in the form of steam, because of the very high temperatures. As it travels up the more than 200-foot height of the stack, the steam cools down before hitting outside air. In warmer weather, you won't see anything.

"When the outside air gets cooler in the fall and winter — usually below 45 degrees — it causes moisture coming out of the stack to condense almost instantly into water vapor. We call this visible vapor trail a 'plume' because of its resemblance to a billowy plume feather. The colder it is, the larger the plume appears.

"You'll see the plume at our plant in about the same kind of weather in which you can 'see your breath,' and for exactly the same reason: it's cold out."

The colder it is, the larger the vapor plume appears.

A Step Toward Regional Waste Disposal

injection system requested in this application anticipates the more stringent limits to be imposed by the state and will reduce mercury emissions even more.

However, the best way to prevent mercury emissions is to separate mercury-containing items like batteries and fluorescent tubes before you put them in the garbage. You can turn them in at the county's Household Hazardous Waste Collection.

We've been involved in a long-standing public education campaign encouraging people to separate batteries to help lower the amount of mercury that is disposed of as solid waste. The company has also worked closely with the DEP to persuade hospitals — large volume battery users — to separate their batteries for recycling.

We'll keep you advised about the progress of our applications and other important events here at the plant through this newsletter. And, we'll keep publishing tips on how to properly dispose of various household items and materials. The citizens of Essex County have shown wonderful cooperation with separation and recycling efforts.

As we all learn more about solid waste management, we can continue to work together to take care of our waste disposal needs and minimize our impact on the environment at the same time.

Alston's Top 10

Operations Manager Joe Alston has come up with a Top 10 List of things not to throw in household trash at this time of year:

10. Grass clippings
9. Yard waste
8. Twigs and branches
7. Leaves
6. Lawn/garden chemicals
5. Corrugated cardboard
4. Construction debris
3. Paints, thinners and solvents
2. Anti-freeze and motor oil
1. Batteries

"Numbers 10 through six usually accumulate when people are doing that last cleanup outside before winter. Check with your town to see how to dispose of leaves and other plant matter. Chemicals should be turned in at the county's next Household Hazardous Waste Collection," Joe said.

"A new water heater or appliance might have come in a cardboard box, or you may have some small pieces of lumber or wallboard around from that home improvement project you just finished," he continued. "Again, your municipal solid waste coordinator can tell you how to handle these. Items three through one should also go to the hazardous waste collection."

Alston added that residents should check with their municipalities during the holidays for information on disposal of Christmas trees.

Youngsters Have a Ball at Ref-Fuel/NJIT Soccer Camp

Some 40 youngsters spent a week honing both their classroom and soccer skills this summer at the Youth Academic and Soccer Camp at New Jersey Institute of Technology (NJIT). This marked Ref-Fuel's fourth year as the name sponsor of the program.

Morning sessions at the camp are designed to help students raise their abilities in reading, math, spelling and geography. Teachers use information derived from soccer, such as compiling soccer statistics or team standings, to aid the students in understanding the subject matter.

The afternoons are spent on the soccer field, under the guidance of head coach Dan Kilday and his expert staff. The day ends with a dip in the NJIT pool — an especially welcome relief during last summer's heat wave. A highlight of the week is a tour of the Ref-fuel plant.

Ref-Fuel Scholarship Awarded to Oliviera

Class valedictorian Carla M. Oliviera has been selected to receive the 1995 American Ref-Fuel East Side High School Scholarship.

Carla was awarded the scholarship based on her academic record, references and an autobiographical statement, according to Ref-Fuel Plant Controller Tim McEvoy. She is attending Columbia University, majoring in engineering.

"Carla is an outstanding student. She received the Presidential Award for Academic Excellence, which requires a 3.7 average. She was also named a Garden State Urban Scholar," Tim said.

At East Side, Carla was a member of the National Honor Society, Environmental Club and Math Club. She participated in the citywide Math Olympics for three years. Her teams placed second in geometry, trigonometry and calculus. She also played second base for the varsity softball team.

This is the fifth year American Ref-Fuel has presented a scholarship grant to a graduating East Side senior.

Plant Tours Are a Hit at American Ref-Fuel

More than 2,600 people a year take advantage of the tour programs offered by American Ref-Fuel. School, youth, and civic groups are the most frequent visitors, but we also play host to delegations of scientists and engineers from around the world.

Tours are free of charge and available seven days a week. For tour information, contact Liz Howard at (201) 344-0900.

Recent tour groups include: Hoffmann/LaRoche, PSE&G, South Korean sanitation group, Pusan City (Korea) councilmen, French industrial engineering group, Italian government officials, Russian power industry group, Norwegian engineering students, Argentinean engineering group, Ontario hydroelectric industry group, American Production and Inventory Control Society (NJIT), Montclair State University, Essex County College, American Chemical Society Student Affiliates, Cook College (Rangers) Recycling Certification Program, Ridge Street School (Newark), Lincoln School (Kearny), Washington School (Summit), Montclair Kimberly Academy, Hackensack Meadowlands Environmental Center, Environmental &

Welfare is efficient in Essex

The issue of welfare reform has struck a decided chord with the collective American psyche. Reactionary and extremist Republican politicians and even some Democratic reactionary/extremist wannabees, seek to curry favor with the electorate by pandering to their constituents' worst instincts, as they are reflected in the general disdain for and resentment of the poor and needy.

As the economy worsens, the hard-working middle-class has become understandably paranoid as to their respective employment prospects diminish. Downsizing, outsourcing and merging in the private sector, combined with privatization in the public sector, have created an American middle class treading upon the tenuous waters of fiscal insecurity. A natural, and yet unfortunate, result has been the heaping upon the sagging shoulders of the poor the misplaced responsibility for the middle class' woes.

Be Our Guest

By David Weiner

In Essex County, the guru of privatization, the former acting director of the Essex County Office of Budget and Management, the former candidate for a position upon the Essex County Improvement Authority, Joel Wingarten has plotted for the past year to privatize the workforce of the county of Essex. Specifically, he has skulked about with operatives from an outside firm to effectuate this sale of the social services of the county to private parties. While he has bragged in his hometown's local press how he could virtually obliterate the Essex County Division of Welfare through automation and privatization, the facts belie his braggadocio.

The state of New Jersey has released statistics for 1994 which reveal that the Essex County Division of Welfare is the second most cost effective social service delivery system of all of the state's 21 county welfare agencies.

While our Family Development Program participation rate has increased from under 4 percent to 18 percent, our administrative cost per case was only $144.24, the lowest in the state, compared to Camden County's $309.57. What is particularly germane is the fact that Camden's FDP program was privatized from its inception, and their participation rate is lagging far behind that of Essex County's.

Other examples:

- Essex County Welfare's Aid to Family's with the Dependent Children program's cost per case annually in 1994 was $561, the second lowest in the state.

- Our Child Support Program cost per case was $39, again the second lowest in the state.

- Our Food Stamp Program's cost per case was $198, the lowest in the state.

- Our agency recently received a Certificate of Appreciation from the U.S. Department of Agriculture "in recognition for reducing the food stamp quality control error rate 25 percent in fiscal year 1994."

Perhaps our agency's most prodigious feat was the penurious administrative cost per case we achieved last year to deliver Adult and Special Medicaid Programs. The Essex County Division of Welfare's cost per case was a miserly $112, the absolute lowest in the entire state. The county with the highest cost per case was Ocean County, which spent an alarmingly amazing $1,270 to administer the same program, or more than 10 times that of Essex.

We achieved this fiduciary feat while laboring to service the highest AFDC caseload in the entire state, or approximately 32,000 cases. Hudson County with 19,000 cases and Camden County with 14,000 cases are the closest to our AFDC case total.

Senior Service premieres Ozzie

Senior Services honored Lois Hull with the first annual Ozzie Award during its annual fund-raiser, Cabaret Night, at Rascal's Comedy Club in West Orange.

The Ozzie award was created by Senior Services, an Orange-based agency, to recognize an individual or organization that has consistently advocated for the rights and privileges of the senior population in order to enable them to remain independent with dignity.

Hull has been in the forefront of advocating for the right of older adults for more than 20 years. Through her work as the director of the Essex County Division on Aging and the director of the State Division on Aging, Hull has made significant contributions toward improving the quality of life for older adults.

"Lois Hull has always had the keen ability to envision the solution to the problem," said Neal Clarke, president and chief executive officer of Senior Services. "Senior Services could not have chosen a more worthy recipient for the premiere of the Ozzie. Through her illustrious career in the field of aging, Lois has demonstrated time and again her commitment to the older adult population.

Having the brain, heart and courage to be outspoken, she has successfully advocated to protect and ensure the well being of frail, isolated, poor and often times forgotten older adults."

Hull initiated the Home Friend Program to respond to the home care needs of older adults who could not afford to pay for in-home assistance. She expanded the Meals on Wheels to serve homebound seniors with holiday meals and mobilized the support of volunteers. She created the Adult Intervention Program, the Low Vision Project, the Friend Advocate Program and piloted the first Volunteer Advocates in Nursing Home.

In her capacity as director of the State Division on Aging, Hull fought for the passage of the Adult Protective Services Act which mandates protection of older adults from abuse, neglect and exploitation. Through her perseverance and advocacy, the act was signed into law in 1994.

Since August 1994, Hull has served as director of special projects for UMDNJ-University Hospital.

Videos to utilize 'down time' to inform welfare recipients

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

Essex County welfare recipients will be able to watch television while they are waiting for service at the county's four branch offices under a program that was kicked off Tuesday in Newark.

Recipients will not be able to watch their favorite cartoons or catch up on afternoon soap operas, but instead videos about proper nutrition, prenatal care, health care access and child and home safety.

Television monitors have been installed in the county's four welfare offices located in Orange and Newark, and a continuous video will be shown. After viewing the video, trained resource workers will be available to answer questions and provide referral service for the welfare clients.

The program is an attempt to inform welfare clients about child care, proper nutrition and safety — topics which are often not practiced by the poor and which can lead to tragedy if overlooked.

"The Essex County Child Health and Education Project will attempt to reach children and families with preventive information that is both educational and entertaining," said County Executive James Treffinger. "This program will make great use of 'down time' that many clients face when visiting a field office. Since we serve more than 30,000 AFDC families through our Welfare Division, that gives us a wide audience of women and children."

"Women and children face a challenging time" with cutbacks in health care programs being made at the federal level, said Ciro Scalera, director of the Association for Children of New Jersey, which helped establish the program with funding from the Prudential Foundation. "Any tools we can give to improve their level of health care is helpful. This is a serious first step to create awareness through education," he said, adding he was unaware of any other welfare division in the state that has a program like this.

At the current time there are four, one and one-half hour videos which cover nutrition, prenatal care, child and home safety, fire and burn prevention and health care access. The videos, which combine animation and live action with doctors and a narrator, will be shown continuously throughout the day, with each video seen about four times a day, said Paul Goldenberg, director of the Department of Citizen Services for the county.

Goldenberg said the videos will "raise the level of awareness through education" and hopefully entertain children while providing useful information for adults.

"From time to time all clients will visit one of the office branches and see the video while they are waiting," said James Williams, newly appointed director of the Division of Welfare, who added welfare recipients will not be waiting one and one-half hours for welfare services.

The resource workers, who have been trained by the Gateway Maternal and Child Health Consortium, will provide information on lead poisoning, safety, immunization and have information to refer welfare clients to various state, county and local agencies which could provide services the welfare recipient may not know they are eligible for.

"Many times the clients don't know where to get services or may be too afraid to ask," said Rose Smith, director of outreach education at the Gateway Consortium.

"One of the most important parts of this program is the emphasis on 'follow through,'" Treffinger said. "After families get a chance to see the videos, they will have the guidance of a specially trained resource worker. Their job is to answer questions and connect families into the right health

Consultant's contract put on hold by freeholders

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

A resolution extending the contract of a private consulting firm operating the county Geriatric Center was tabled by the freeholders Nov. 21 after the necessity of the contract was questioned.

This came after an ordinance naming the prospective buyer of the Geriatric Center was pulled from the agenda. The name was taken off the agenda because negotiations with the purchaser were not complete, according to Joanna Noonan, director of public information for the county.

Layoff notices have been sent to employees of the Geriatric Center, extending their final employment date with the county from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31. Notices were sent out last week and employees were expected to receive them before Thanksgiving.

The tabled resolution increased the amount of the county's contract with Care Perspectives from $179,300 to $359,300 and extended it to Dec. 31.

The resolution was finally tabled after Freeholder Louise Palagano questioned why the board had not received a 90-day evaluation report by Care Perspectives which was due at the end of September. The report was supposed to state what the problems at the center were, how Care Perspective improved the situation and what the outlook for the center was.

"We should not vote until after we get this," she said. The report is expected to be given to the freeholders before Wednesday's meeting.

Care Perspectives began working with the county to correct deficiencies in the center discovered by the state. One of its employees has since assumed the duties of administrator of the center when former director Steve Gruchacz was reassigned to the hospital center in the summer.

Freeholder Pat Sebold questioned the amount of money the county was paying the consultants to operate the 236-bed Geriatric Center in Cedar Grove.

"Much more is being spent there than the highest paid county employee," she said. "I can't believe we can't hire a licensed administrator for much less than what is being spent here."

"This is the going rate in the health profession," County Administrator Vince DiMauro said, acknowledging his answer was not "great."

He said in a "normal situation" the county would hire another licensed administrator at an annual salary between $60,000 and $80,000. DiMauro added the county was still being closely monitored by the state and required the expertise of Care Perspectives.

"At this point there is really no choice for the county until Dec. 31," DiMauro said. "It would be catastrophic to change management under Care Perspectives."

"We are still under scrutiny by the state and we are in a state of flux with the sale of the center," he said.

Gail Moore, president of Care Perspectives, agreed that the county is still under a directive plan of action with the state and would remain under scrutiny until another survey was conducted.

Moore and DiMauro, however, could not produce a letter from the state indicating the emergency situation still existed and said the message

'Much more is being spent there than the highest paid county employee. I can't believe we can't hire a licensed administrator for much less than what is being spent here.'

— Pat Sebold,

was given to them orally. The hospital, once not able to admit any patients, has been allowed to freely admit patients since the start of fall.

Freeholder Joseph Parlavacchio said if the county has employees who are qualified and have the required nursing care license, that person should take over for Care Perspectives. This suggestion, however, would call for Gruchacz's return to the Geriatric Center, which created concern for several freeholders and administration officials.

"The state is therefore questioning the ability of qualified people in the county already," Freeholder Nicholas Rolli said.

Moore said, however, the county did not have any employees qualified to administer the Geriatric Center.

Because the discussion turned toward personnel, DiMauro suggested it be continued in executive session, but the discussion during the open meeting clearly cast doubt on the abilities of Gruchacz.

The Geriatric Center was cited for several violations, including deficiencies in the level of patient care, following a state survey conducted in May. In June, Care Perspectives was hired on an emergency basis to remedy the deficiencies. A three-month contract from July to September worth $179,300 was later approved.

Bob Arnold, director of the Hospital Center, which oversees the Geriatric Center, said two payments of $54,000 and $103,000 have been made to Care Perspectives and there is an invoice for $55,000 owed by the county.

DiMauro said the $55,000 invoice is included in the additional $180,000 being requested in the tabled resolution.

Contract stalled

Twelve private companies interested in purchasing the Geriatric Center were sent bid packages, although only five made formal proposals to buy the center and 20 acres of land around it.

The name of the finalist, as well as the names of the other four bidders, remains a mystery, as the county executive has not revealed the name of the company.

When negotiations with the finalist are complete, the name will be forwarded to the freeholder board for consideration. Freeholder President Joseph DiVincenzo created a four-member volunteer panel which will review the service record of the company before the freeholders take a vote.

Postmen make big delivery with Cerebral Palsy Center

By Robin Wallace
Staff Writer

While many residents of Essex County are familiar with the Cerebral Palsy Center of Essex and West Hudson, a lesser known fact is that the center would very much not exist as it does today without the largesse of local postmen.

Part Three

Having outgrown its original quarters at Crippled Childrens Hospital and its subsequent site in the basement of the Summer Avenue elementary school in Newark, the center set its sights on the Sanford Avenue location in Belleville.

It was the mailmen of Irvington who first picked up the ball in 1952 by organizing a walk-a-thon on their routes to raise $7,000. In a larger effort in the spring of 1953, the letter carriers of Essex and West Hudson counties sponsored a "March for Mercy" and donated $130,000 toward the construction of the Belleville facility, which was then in the blueprint stage.

As part of the anniversary celebration, the center is planning a "Postal Appreciation Day" on which it hopes to invite the letter carriers who worked so hard so many years ago to a dinner of recognition.

However, Executive Director Phyllis Burgess of the Cerebral Palsy Center said her staff is having difficulty finding these mailmen and has issued an urgent and open call for anyone who can help them find these men to contact the center.

"The letter carriers are really responsible for the beginning of the center. We want to have a Postal Appreciation Day for the mailmen," Burgess said. "We want to bring them back and let them see what happened with the center."

Waste collection deemed success

In assessing the Nov. 18 Household Hazardous Waste Drop-Off Program conducted by the Essex County Utilities Authority, County Executive James Treffinger categorized the county-wide operation as "an outstanding success with long-term health and environmental benefits for local residents."

Treffinger specified that the mission of the ECUA was to identify and remove dangerous chemical toxins and other potentially harmful materials from the solid waste mainstream. Treffinger said, "We are in jeopardy if these hazardous materials pose a serious threat to our air, our water supplies, our health and our lives."

He noted that every municipality in the county participated in the hazardous waste program. The ECUA collected more than 69,000 pounds of materials at both Belleville and Cedar Grove sites Nov. 18.

ECUA Chairman Mauro Tucci said the hazardous waste drop-off items included thousands of gallons of oil-based paints, solvents, motor oil, herbicides, pesticides, rusted propane tanks, used car batteries and other materials. Also collected for the first time were fluorescent light tubes. The ECUA serviced nearly 1,000 pre-registered participants during the collection.

Tucci advised residents that the Utilities Authority will again sponsor a free drop off program in the spring. "The next phase in this targeted campaign is tentatively scheduled for late March 1996 to coincide with spring clean ups. The ECUA will continue its public education efforts, emphasizing health, safety and environmental aspects of this program," he said.

Blood Center makes winter appeal

The North Jersey Blood Center has announced a variety of times and locations for opportunities to donate blood. "The need is particularly acute as the winter holidays approach," said Judy Knecht, spokesperson for the blood center.

According to Knecht, each donation of blood is broken down into various components, each of which have different shelf lives. Platelets have a shelf life of just five days. Red cells have a shelf life of 42 days, which means that when donations fall in December, the impact is severely felt in January.

"One of the most valuable gifts one can give is the gift of life," Knecht said. "Thousands of people will need blood transfusions during this period — cancer patients and those with bleeding disorders who need transfusions regularly, and those involved in emergency traumas, such as fires or vehicular accidents."

Donors must be 18 years of age. Seventeen year olds may donate with parental permission. There is no upper age limit for donors provided they have donated within the last two years or have a doctor's note. Donors should know their Social Security card number and the bring a signed form of identification. People with cold or flu symptoms should wait until they are feeling better before donating and there is a 72-hour deferral for dental work, including routine teeth cleaning. For those who have travelled outside of the United States recently, call the blood center for eligibility criteria.

For more information or to sign up for a blood drive, call the blood center at (800) BLOOD NJ.

Social Security numbers can hasten tax returns

Taxpayers can eliminate delays in getting their federal income tax refunds by applying for Social Security numbers now.

IRS District Director J.J. Jennings said, "There is a new law which applies to tax years beginning Jan. 1. The IRS is now looking at all Social Security numbers on all federal individual income tax returns."

Those taxpayers who will claim exemptions but do not file for EITC, the following applies:

- For tax years 1995, all dependents and dependent children born before Nov. 1, must have Social Security numbers.
- For tax years 1996, all dependents and dependent children born before Dec. 1, 1996, must have Social Security numbers.
- For tax year 1997, all dependents and dependent children must have Social Security numbers.

In summary, while we of Local 1081 of the Communication Workers of America recognize, at best, the ambivalent emotions harbored by the general public toward welfare, emotions fanned by the irresponsibly short-term, feel good, quick fix and divisive solutions provided by the likes of a Weingarten or a Gingrich, the facts we have afforded you lead to only one irrefutable conclusion — there is absolutely no valid reason to privatize any part of the Essex County Division of Welfare.

We have proved our monetary metal by delivering to the poor and needy residents, as well as the hard-pressed taxpayers, of Essex County, the most cost-efficient social service delivery system in the entire Garden State.

Robin Spielberg releases another holiday CD treat

Maplewood native Robin Spielberg has released another compact disc direct from North Star Records entitled "In the Heart of Winter." The pianist is also set to appear in concert in neighboring Montclair as well as at Barnes and Noble in the Big Apple.

The disc successfully captures the essence of the winter season from that last leaf falling in October to the first incling of spring when the last of the snow melts away.

"In the Heart of Christmas" is Spielberg's fourth CD, proving she is quickly becoming one of the most popular keyboardists on the contemporary New Age scene.

In her first year on a national label, Spielberg sold more than 100,000 units and showed her creativity with original compositions as well as her versatility by recording as a solo pianist. On most of her efforts, she often records and performs her ensemble, LunaMoon — cellist Byron Duckwall and Cris Theriault on guitar.

As a matter of fact, her last two releases under her label, "Spirit of the Holidays" with LunaMoon and "Unchained Melodies," have been the two top sellers at North Star with whom she has signed a six-album deal.

Even more impressive, in the first five months that her flagship effort "Heal of the Hand" was

Her sophomore effort, "Spirit of the Holidays," was a disc of classic Christmas songs blended with LunaMoon's signature classy touch with self-composed introductions and interludes scattered throughout.

Her third compact disc, "Unchained Melodies," is her tribute to classic themes from the world of film and musicals. The CD's highlights are her wonderful takes on "Unchained Melody" and "Moonlight River."

Finally, with "In the Heart of Winter," Spielberg gives us such timeless classics as "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Silent Night" and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

It also includes such original compositions as "First Night." Spielberg said New Year's Eve has always been a magical night filled with both endings and beginnings

Bloomfield College celebrates Latin artists

Bloomfield College's Westminster Art Gallery has invited six internationally acclaimed Latin American artists to exhibit their paintings and small-scale sculptures in an exhibition that runs through Dec. 12.

The exhibit presents a wide range of styles, philosophies and approaches to art that promises to engage viewers in a powerful viewing experience.

Featured in the show are award-winning artists Manuel Acevedo of Newark, Freddy Rodriguez of Flushing, N.Y., Gloria Rodriguez of Jersey City, Juan Sanchez of Brooklyn, Fanny Sanin of New York City and Fausto Sevilla of Elizabeth.

Sanin is noted for her striking geometric patterns that have been described as "palpable — uniting matter and spirit with glowing, transfigured material." Her internationally successful career spans more than 30 years, with her paintings found in corporate and museum collections throughout the United States as well as Colombia, Venezuela, Mexico, England, Canada, France and Germany.

A recipient of fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation, National Endowment for the Arts, New York State Council on the Arts, Sanchez uses beautiful and disturbing images, and often words, to address gender and race issues, culture and social change. His works have appeared in more than 100 solo and group exhibitions throughout the United States. The Museum of Modern Art, the Fausto Sevilla of Elizabeth is one of six Latin American artists to be featured in an exhibit at Bloomfield College's Westminster Art Gallery through Dec. 12.

Whitney Museum of American Art and the Bronx Museum of Arts have his pieces in their permanent collections.

Sevilla uses brightly colored surrealist and expressionist images to capture memories of his childhood and his family. For Sevilla, "Art is a form of self healing and a tool for healing our surroundings and finding connections to the environment."

Rodriguez's paintings are visual representations of the co-existence of spirituality and sex in the church. "As a spiritual and socially conscious artist, I feel compelled to confront this contemporary religious and social issue," he said. "My style is minimal, geometric, clean and clear, with a touch of an emotional pouring of paint."

Acevedo creates large installations of structural components, such as doorways. A professional photographer, Acevedo brings to Bloomfield small-scale sculptures of models of these larger installations. These maquettes also include photographs.

Rodriguez studied with Lorenzo Homar, the "maestro" or "master" of graphic arts in Puerto Rico. Her current canvases are more formal than gestural, using layers of color to build nuances of texture. Her subjects draw on classical images to make social commentaries on contemporary issues.

The Westminster Art Gallery is open Monday and Thursday, 1-5 p.m.; Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.; and by appointment. Westminster Art Gallery is located on Fremont Street, in Bloomfield. For more information on the exhibition and the Westminster Art Gallery, call Lisa Farese at 748-9000, ext. 343.

released, the album sold more than 10,000 copies. That may not sound like a lot considering mainstream artists sell that many in half a day. However, take into mind the nature and scope of the instrumental and New Age market is not as grand or flamboyant and 10,000 copies for an up-and-coming artist is quite a feat. Now nearing numbers well over 100,000, Spielberg is slowly etching her music into a well-deserved niche.

Originally released on a tiny independent label, "Heal of the Hand" was funded entirely through donations from her avid local fans. Nearly all of the 2,000 pressed copies were sold in just about a year and people did notice her amazing talent.

Spielberg and LunaMoon, with their "little record that could," instantly wowed many critics and New Age aficionados — including North Star Records.

and there is something wonderful about the idea of a fresh start that makes us all celebrate our humanity. She wrote this song for a First Night festival in her hometown and it's about taking stock and moving forward and putting dreams in to action.

"A Change of Season" Spielberg wrote because she was inspired by Mother Nature's command as it follows a maple's journey from the first brisk day of Autumn to everything that follows afterward.

As if tickling the ivories wasn't enough — her talent doesn't end musically. She's also an accomplished actress who holds a degree in drama from New York University. What's more, Spielberg is also a founding member of the Atlantic Theater Company in New York City — a company known for its affiliation with Pulitzer-Prize winning playwright David Mamet.

NJ chamber music season is set to begin on Jan. 12

The curtain is about to rise on the New Jersey Chamber Music Society's 22nd season and a vibrant new 1995-1996 season brochure is now available with all the details.

The award-winning society, heralded as "the leading chamber ensemble in the state" will present Friday evening concerts. A selection of the concerts will be at Union Congregational Church, Upper Montclair, and two at the Robert V. Van Fossan Theatre on the Bloomfield College campus.

The new series is filled with the society's unequal mix of "the traditional" and "the new," performed by an outstanding roster of artists, including a special appearance at the Jan. 12, 1996, concert, "A Tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.," by King's daughter, Yolanda. The program, which is co-sponsored by the Martin Luther King Jr. Scholarship Fund of Montclair, features Yolanda King reading both her father's words and her own moving writings.

During the season, NJCMS will present some of the most beloved chamber works by Bach, Brahms, Schubert, Schumann and Beethoven plus more contemporary music by Colgrass, Cage, Bolling and Ellington. Individual concerts will combine classical with jazz and spirituals with Shostakovich. Two world premieres are scheduled and for the holidays, a Baroque Festival that culminates with Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 4.

In addition to King, the 1995-96 roster of artists includes pianists Wu Han and Jerome Lowenthal, soprano Leslie Hamilton and jazz trombonist Steve Turre. The season also includes the diverse musical styles of Japanese koto player Fusako Yoshida and Puerto Rican composer Raymond Torres-Santos.

The Dec. 8, Jan. 12 and May 3 concerts will be at Union Congregational Church, 176 Cooper Ave., Upper Montclair. Those on Feb. 23 and March 22 will be at the Robert V. Van Fossan Theatre, corner of Franklin and Fremont streets in Bloomfield. Performers begin at 8:30 p.m.

To receive the 1995-96 NJCMS brochure, detailing all the season's exciting events, call the society at 746-6068.

Dining Review November 30, 1995

By Jim Van Blarcom
Staff Writer

What is Ireland famous for? Potatoes, great scholars and poets, great culture and faith, great beer and... food?

Yes! The Bailey, one of Montclair's truly first class restaurants, steeped in Irish tradition, has food that can compete with any exceptional international cuisine.

Owned and managed by brothers Brian and Patrick Daly, the two-year-old restaurant benefits from the family's experience in operating such world-class establishments as The Rainbow Room, Four Seasons and The Forum in New York City, and The Playboy Club in Chicago.

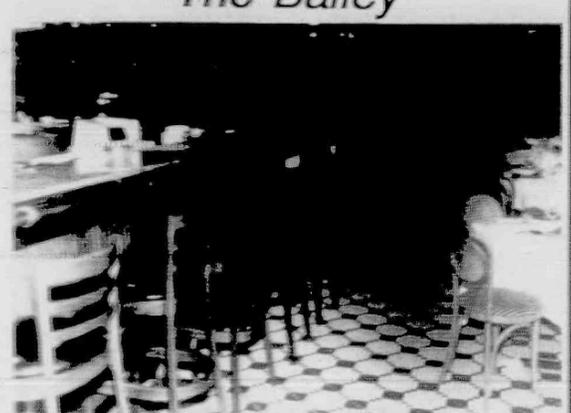

Originally from Dublin, the Daly brothers began their careers in restaurant ownership/management after purchasing a pub in Ireland they named "Brian's," which was in the vicinity of a more famous bar called The Bailey.

Arriving in America in 1958, it took the brothers approximately 35 hard-working-years to settle down and purchase a bar in the heart of Montclair called Winberry's, which they would renovate and rename The Bailey.

The interior of the redesigned restaurant has a clean, sophisticated appearance. The large mahogany-colored bar has eye-catching brass and glass fixtures. A white tile floor with accents of green, makes the customer warm and comfortable. Surrounding this centerpiece are tables that are located in three distinct and intimate dining areas.

Service is friendly and prompt. The Bailey suggests a bottle from their list of champagne and wines, or perhaps a pint of Guinness to begin the meal.

The Bailey

The Bailey is located at 30 South Park Street in the middle of Montclair's business district. Lunch is offered Monday through Friday 12 p.m. to 3 p.m. Dinner is offered Monday through Saturday 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. For reservations, telephone 744-0402.

After bread, order the Fresh Mozzarella as one of your party's appetizers — it is served with roasted peppers, tomato, arugula and red onions. Or choose Escargot Burguignonne — snails burgundy style in herbed garlic butter, or Shrimp Scampi. For salad, try The Bailey Special Salad.

Moving on to the main course — if one of the specials does not grab you, though they will — order the Boneless Rainbow Trout Meuniere — sautéed with lemon, parsley and browned butter. In addition to seafood, The Bailey serves chicken, duckling, veal, pork, beef and pasta dishes as main courses.

For the finishing touch, an Irish Coffee and one of The Bailey's fresh desserts will persuade you to return soon.

In addition to offering extensive lunch and dinner menus, the kitchen is enthusiastic about preparing a Sunday dinner, 2 p.m. to 8 p.m., complete with a choice of appetizer or soup, main course, dessert and beverage, for a fixed price of $19.50.

HOROSCOPES

December 3-9

ARIES - March 21/April 20 Has work been stressing you out lately? Put some of your fire-sign energy into planning a vacation. A warm climate will help you recharge. Something to look forward to helps keep momentum high. Use extra spending money to treat a friend to a night out on the town.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21 Stop dwelling over recent setbacks. Taurus. It's time to look towards the future. A new love interest sparks an impulsive nature midweek. Don't be shy. Finances pose problems Thursday. Grab the reigns on your tight-fisted ways before you find yourself in the poorhouse.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21 Thinking about rekindling an old flame? Think again if the object of your desire happens to be a Leo. You may not be the only one on his/her mind. A social gathering proves this on Tuesday. Play it safe. A little overtime this weekend goes a long, long way.

CANCER - June 22/July 22 Fight the urge to crawl back into your shell this week. It's easy to play it shy over the holidays, but it's really not wise. Replace your usual holiday gloom with some social graces Thursday. A Libra is sure to take note. Self-indulgence leads to a great weekend.

LEO - July 23/August 23 Budget, budget, budget, Leo. Relinquish your credit cards to a trusted friend, preferably a Scorpio or Pisces. Instead, splurge on creativity at work - skills needed just happen to be your greatest gifts. Show them off as only a Leo can. A little kindness goes a long way at home.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22 It's time for change Virgo and you have to do what you hate most - make choices. Work situations depend on your logical thinking. But don't resolve matters of the heart using the same means. Follow your feelings to find truth in relationships. Get in touch with your feelings.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23 Have you lost touch with old friends? You have only yourself to blame. Instead of feeling sorry for yourself, use this week to get in touch. Write letters and plan social activities. Delegate responsibilities at work and treat yourself to a long weekend. A romantic encounter on Saturday kicks off next week right.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22 Take a break from pressing commitments in the romance department. You're going through the motions lately without knowing what you want. Find out. Use free time to exercise. It will help clear your mind. Money looks great midweek. Social gatherings suit your mood.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21 Money takes second priority to nothing this week. Quality time at home starting on Tuesday will help replenish your good attitude and keep your cashflow out of harm's way. Have you been putting off household chores? This week's a perfect time to get them done.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20 You may as well call your co-workers friends this week, because you'll be spending a lot of time with them in and out of the office. A company party means new introductions. Business lunches invite new opportunities on Thursday. Caution: don't bite off more than you can chew.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18 Confused about romance? Stop playing games. If you focus on specific goals, you can achieve them. Define new boundaries and don't let a self-involved Leo side-step you out of them. Months of financial planning pay off this week. Don't be afraid to treat yourself.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20 Hold tight to emotions this week. Your logical business side is in demand. At home, an over-indulgent Capricorn turns to you for some investment advice. Your word becomes law to this lost soul, so share your knowledge freely, but be sure you know all the facts.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months: It's time for change and you might feel like too many things are flying at you from all directions. Prioritize and you won't disappoint. It's an especially good year at work, and it's wise to take as many new opportunities that come your way. Still, speak up when you need a break, or more than likely you won't get one. A ski vacation is the perfect break in April. Ask a Scorpio to join you and you're sure to make it extra-special. Romance will prove exciting this year, but it's not the best time to enter new, long term relationships. Try dating. By year's end you should have your pick of the bunch.

Memorial quilt will be on display through Dec. 10 at MAM

Two sections from The NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt will be displayed at The Montclair Art Museum through Dec. 10. The exhibition will coincide with World AIDS Day, which is tomorrow.

The 12-foot square portions of the quilt, which in its entirety now encompasses more than 31,000 individual panels, will represent 16 of the 128 known deaths in Montclair from AIDS-related complications.

Panels are made by friends and family members, and include a wide variety of materials from leather to favorite T-shirts to photographs to teddy bears.

Information about the NAMES Project Foundation, local agencies serving people with AIDS and HIV, as well as instructions for making a panel will be available at the museum. Other commemorative activities are being coordinated with the Montclair AIDS Task Force.

The quilt began in San Francisco as one person's protest to the AIDS epidemic. Propelled by the death and tragedy that confronted so many around the world, Cleve Jones searched for a way to make people understand the overwhelming loss and frustration affecting him and so many of his friends.

In June 1987, Jones spray-painted his friend's name, Marvin Feldman, on to a piece of cloth approximately the size of a grave. Friends, acquaintances and strangers joined the effort by making panels of their own. Soon, thousands of people across the United

Music program comes to West Orange

As part of The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center's new program for outstanding young artists, Chamber Music Society Two and the Brentano String Quartet will participate in an in-school program in West Orange on May 2.

Created to provide performance opportunities, as well as training in educational outreach to emerging artists, 1995/96 marks the inaugural season of Chamber Music Society Two. In the first in-school event of Chamber Music Society Two, a day-long, three-part program will take place at the newly renovated West Orange High School Theater.

Schedule of Events:

Mini-Concert/Workshop — to be held before an audience of 800 West Orange elementary and middle school string students, the first part of the day-long event consists of a workshop featuring the Brentano Quartet. Designed to prepare students for a more formal concert situation, the workshop will include a discussion of quartet playing, musical illustrations and a question/answer period. Participants will then "graduate" to a Chamber Music Beginnings concert the following week at New York City's Walter Reade Theatre. Chamber Music Beginnings is a concert series geared to young audiences.

Master Class — West Orange string students of elementary and middle school age will be coached by the Brentano Quartet.

Concert/Discussion — the culmination of the day-long event. The Brentano Quartet will discuss and perform two full-length works for high school string students from West Orange.

Chamber Music Society Two reflects the dedication of The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center to creating new and innovative opportunities for emerging young artists, and to providing the community with meaningful and exciting music education programs.

Festival of Music's new name on the 'horizon'

Festival of Music, a non-profit arts-in-education organization which will be presenting programs in the Orange and East Orange schools this year, has changed its name to Arts Horizons.

Festival of Music was founded by John Devo, a music educator and trumpet player who played in "A Chorus Line" for the entire run of the show. Since 1978, the organization has brought artists from Broadway, Lincoln Center and all over the world into schools throughout the tri-state area. They have performed before more than four million students, teachers and parents through multi-cultural assembly programs, workshops and artist-in-residence programs.

In 1992, programming was expanded to include dance, theater, visual arts and creative writing. "The name 'Festival of Music' no longer describes our services," Devo said. "We chose the name 'Arts Horizons' to express our belief that the arts offer young people limitless opportunities for learning and living." Programs range from creative alternatives for at-risk students to the integration of the arts into the core curriculum.

Several of the Orange Public Schools will be visited by Arts Horizons' artists during the 1995/96 school year. Special education students in the Cleveland, Middle and High Schools will learn African drumming, Brazilian dance and clay sculpture. They will also enjoy performances by the African-American Festival, Salsa Festival and O Samba!, a troupe which performs the capoeira, an Afro-Brazilian acrobatic dance brought to Brazil by slaves 400 years ago.

East Orange Public Schools are working with Arts Horizons' consulting service, ARTS2000, which assists schools and districts develop their own plans to improve education and through the arts. Consultant Ronnie Ragen has been working with the Franklin Academy of Creativity and Performing Arts and the Washington

Academy of Music on long range planning in the areas of curriculum and staff development. Both schools have hosted an in-service workshop focusing on Howard Gardner's Theory of Multiple Intelligences and how their respective arts themes can be integrated into each school's core curriculum.

Arts Horizons is launching its new name under the leadership of a new board chairman, star of stage and screen, Coleste Holum. She won an Oscar for her appearance in "Gentleman's Agreement," appeared in "Oklahoma!" on Broadway, and has appeared in numerous movies, television and stage productions. She has had a lifelong interest in the power of the arts to educate, to enrich and to heal.

Arts Horizons is one of five arts education organizations nationally to be selected by The National Endowment on the Arts to participate in their two year Advancement program.

The celebration of the new name kicks off an exciting season of school programs, which include old favorites and innovative new assemblies and workshops for students, parents and teachers. For more information, an invitation to the Showcase or to preview a program, call 567-1766.

Jazz 88 radio adds new programs to the slate

WBGO radio, 88.3 FM, will broadcast four new weekly programs — three featuring performances and discussions by internationally known jazz artists and a documentary news series hosted by accomplished journalists. These programs are "Wynton Marsalis: Making the Music," "Billy Taylor's Jazz at the Kennedy Center," "Music of Miami" and "Soundprint."

"National Public Radio has developed a jazz initiative which is dedicated to presenting documentary specials and a variety of weekly series that intend to reach out, entertain and educate listeners," said Thurston Briscoe, program director of WBGO-FM. "WBGO will take advantage of the occasion to carry these jazz programs and listeners will reap the benefit."

Hosted by trumpeter and composer Wynton Marsalis,

"Making the Music" is a 26-part series about jazz music and its impact on American culture. Each Monday evening at 8 p.m. Marsalis will take an in-depth look at various elements of jazz, swing and the blues. Joined by other notable jazz musicians, he will engage in insightful dialogue and spontaneous demonstrations.

Every Tuesday at 8 p.m., WBGO-FM will broadcast "Billy Taylor's Jazz at the Kennedy Center." Each hour-long show features a different jazz luminary who joins Taylor and his trio in performance and conversation before a live audience at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. The result is a stimulating blend of music, stories, humor and insights into what makes jazz unique.

Chevrolet has an impressive automotive engine timeline

An Abridged History of the Small-Block V8 by model year:

1955 — 265ci V8 debuts in all-new '55 Chevrolet; Chevrolet General Manager Tom Koontz drives Indy 500 pace car

1956 — Zora Arkus-Duntov sets production car record at Pikes Peak and "flying mile" record at Daytona; optional dual four-barrel carburetors available; Corvette SR races debut at Sebring

1957 — 283ci V8 introduced; Rochester mechanical fuel injection and Duntov cam debut; Buck Baker wins NASCAR championship with "Black Widow" '57 Chevy; Corvette SS makes only racing appearance at Sebring

1959 — William Mitchell, vice-president of GM Styling, races original Sting Ray Corvette

1960 — Duntov unveils mid-engine CERV I at United States Grand Prix; Briggs Cunningham enters three Corvettes at Le Mans

1962 — 327ci V8 introduced; Sebring and Grand Sport Corvettes constructed

1964 — 327ci small-block hits 375 horsepower with Rochester fuel injection; Holley four-barrel introduced on

The world has changed since Chevy introduced the '55 small-block V8

The world was a very different place when the Chevrolet small-block V8 made its debut in 1955. Gasoline was plentiful and inexpensive, emissions regulations were virtually nonexistent, and poodle skirts were a serious fashion statement. But as the "Happy Days" of the Fifties gave way to the turbulence of the Sixties, the disco fever of the Seventies, the feeding frenzy of the Eighties, and the political correctness of the Nineties, the small-block V8 has similarly changed, adapted, and evolved.

The Chevrolet small-block V8 is truly an engine for all seasons. The genius of its design is its flexibility. The small-block grew from 265 cubic inches to 400 cubic inches—an astounding 50 percent increase in displacement—without any change in its external dimensions. The same basic engine design has powered such diverse Chevrolet vehicles as Corvette sports cars, sedate family station wagons, and heavy-duty trucks. It's endured energy crises, stringent emission regulations, fuel economy standards, and changing political and cultural climates.

In short, the Chevrolet small-block V8 is a survivor.

The small-block has weathered numerous storms in its 40-year lifespan. The first was the Horsepower Wars of the Fifties and Sixties. Chevrolet engineers responded to the escalation of performance by developing an arsenal of high-performance hardware. Fuel injection, high-flow cylinder heads, high-compression pistons and aggressive camshaft profiles pumped up the small-block's power curve like mechanical steroids. The little V8's horsepower rating more than doubled in ten years, rocketing from 162 horsepower in 1955 to 375 horses in 1964.

When rising prices and striking gasoline supplies focused attention on fuel economy in the Seventies, Chevrolet engineers turned the small-block into a frugal fuel sipper. Two small-displacement versions—measuring just 262 and 267 cubic inches—were developed to extract more miles from a gallon of gas. The small-block V8 also spawned a V6 derivative in 1978; the spirited Vortec V6 is a direct descendant of that first "three-quarter small-block."

The small-block's exhaust emissions have been reduced dramatically since the days of road draft tubes and simple PCV valves. Starting with the advantage of an efficient engine design, Chevrolet engineers added sophisticated controls and powerful onboard computers. Catalytic converters, oxygen sensors, exhaust gas recirculation, knock sensors, evaporative canisters, and on-board diagnostics have trimmed emissions to a small fraction of the combustion byproducts that issued from tailpipes in 1955.

Despite dire predictions in the early Eighties that the V8 was doomed to extinction, Chevy's small-block has prospered in the Nineties. The introduction of the second-generation LT1 in 1992 was a landmark event—the first major redesign in the engine's history. The 300-horsepower LT1 Corvette and its new 330-horsepower LT4 sibling actually produce more "real-world" horsepower than the brawny small-blocks of the Musclecar Era. And a new family of Vortec small-block V8 engines has injected Chevrolet's 1996 C/K Pickup, Suburban, Tahoe and Chevy Express models with the power and performance that customers are looking for in today's thriving truck market.

Realtor board advances on information highway

You can hardly pick up a newspaper, go to a bookstore or tune into a newscast without seeing or hearing about the Information Highway.

"We are moving from a decade of entertainment to the age of information," said Lawrence Grossman, former vice president of news at NBC. "Consumers are becoming more informed every day. Today's consumers want to be involved with the products and services they purchase," he said.

As technology advances, it becomes increasingly important for companies and organizations to maintain and build relationships with their customers. The interactive environments of the Information Highway is ideally suited for this purpose. It complements and satisfies the desire of today's consumers for information and to be interactive with companies, organizations, products and services, as well as each other.

Like many organizations, the Board of Realtors of the Oranges and Maplewood, now in its 85th year, has recognized its evolving role as an information resource for its members and their customers. "In the 1800s, all one needed to establish a homestead was an adventurous spirit and a fast horse to take them to the frontier," said Pearl Theise, board president and one of the originators of HomeSteadNet North Jersey. "Today, having information is the key to not only selecting the right home, but also maintaining it."

"Getting that information is often difficult and time consuming," added Donald MacCoy, board executive vice president. "We recognized the need for important information to be easily accessed. That understanding led us to put local real estate ads and community information on the Information Highway."

HomeSteadNet is the nation's first comprehensive on-line bulletin board for real estate professionals and consumers. Developed by a subsidiary of the Greater Rochester Association of Realtors, HomeSteadNet, now a nationally recognized on-line service, offers thousands of real estate previews, plus mortgage information, real estate statistics, vacation rentals, e-mail, forums, home improvement articles and a shopping center, to name just a few.

Although a number of on-line computer networks, including America-On-Line, Prodigy and CompuServe, provide real estate news, HomeSteadNet is far more comprehensive in emphasizing important localized information and property reviews.

HomeSteadNet's Home and Property Preview section enables consumers to preview their home at the touch of a button. No more driving all over town to see numerous listings. At their Realtor's office, or in the comfort of their own home, buyers can search by town, price range or number of bedrooms. The Home and Property Preview provides valuable information and up to four photographs of the property. Open house schedules appear for each weekend starting on Friday, so visits to properties can be planned.

"HomeSteadNet makes it truly convenient for customers to locate the property they are looking for," said MacCoy. "They have an opportunity to survey the towns in detail through the Community Profile section. We spent months acquiring this information and data and we believe it is the only source to be found with such a complete form, and we are making it available as a public service without charge."

HomeSteadNet gives anyone with a computer and modern easy access to information about financial planning, home inspection and a number of other professional services that relate to the enjoyment of a home. Consumers have free access to legislative updates, public policy and environmental issues. Board members can also access their member newsletter, and other communications from their local and statewide organization via the on-line service.

Maneuvering some new technologies can be complicated and frustrating. HomeSteadNet, on the other hand, was designed for the ordinary person, not the computer wizard. It is accessible 24 hours a day, seven days a week, without charge. Free floppy disks are available upon request and will be mailed to anyone. The software to access HomeSteadNet is also available through the Internet with an address: <http://hc.cybernetx.net/~seehomes/hsn.html>. Another method of acquiring the software is through a BBS communications program using (201) 763-0800 as the dial-in.

Weichert offers 'how to' kit for homebuyers

With low interest rates spurring home sales again this fall, Weichert Realtors has come out with a timely new "how to" kit for homebuyers.

Called "Buying A Home," the new Weichert guide is an easy-to-follow packet of information that takes the prospective buyer step-by-step through the entire homebuying process. The kit includes tear-out certiicates, pull-out charts, "fax machine" sheets, and a host of other useful material that will enable even "first-timers" to approach their home purchase knowledgeably.

James M. Weichert, president of Weichert Realtors, stated, "Stabilized prices and unusually affordable interest rates continue to present a tremendous window of opportunity for first-time buyers and trade-up buyers alike. With our new homebuying kit, we hope to clarify the homebuying process and show people how to achieve the home and lifestyle that make it all worthwhile."

"Buying A Home" takes the buyer from home financing and finding, through the offer and final closing. A colorful pull-out chart gives an informative overview of what the buyer can expect as the homebuying process unfolds in logical sequence.

For buyers wondering how much they can afford, the kit contains a complimentary mortgage pre-qualification certificate that they can fill out. Weichert's affiliated mortgage company will pre-qualify the prospective buyers for a specific mortgage amount based upon the information they supply. Those who own a home can mail in a certificate for a free price analysis of their home's current market value.

The new Weichert kit also includes worksheets to help buyers narrow down their home search, "fax alert" sheets for instant information on specific homes, a handy glossary of real estate terms, and homebuyer notesheets.

The many advantages and special services offered by Weichert Realtors to smooth the homebuying process are described as well.

The free "Buying A Home" kits are available through your local Weichert office.

Get rid of the clutter before selling home

The Prudential New Jersey Realty Degnan Boyle Division has demonstrated a longstanding commitment to keeping its customers well-informed and current on all matters pertaining to buying and selling real estate in New Jersey.

This article is one in a continuing series on topics to address questions or concerns the average consumer might have about real estate transactions.

How can you make your home appear "bigger" and better looking without spending a cent?

One sure way for your home to appear larger — and more appealing — is if clutter is eliminated and furniture and household goods are reorganized.

In fact, the time to have a garage sale is before you put your home on the market, not after it is sold. And free garage sale signs are available from any Prudential New Jersey Realty office.

Ask Prudential

Even before calling a Realtor for a free comparative market analysis of the home, start eliminating items you don't want to keep. Scrutinize the kitchen for rarely used utensils/gadgets; miscellaneous items in closets and cupboards, even small furniture and throw rugs, that can be neatly stored. Pack or give away clothing that you'll probably never wear again.

Do the same in the garage and in your side or backyard. It's interesting to note that the longer someone lives in a home, the more used to clutter they become. Unfortunately, closets, cupboards and garages brimming with "old treasures" make a home look small and cramped to a prospective buyer, as do rooms filled with furniture.

So examine your furnishings and consign items that are not needed to the storage or the garage sale. Erring on the side of space, not clutter, makes for a more marketable home — and an easier move.

Another "item" that adds to the sense of disarray in a home is excess knickknacks or other collections. Photos and arrangements of collectibles may have sentimental value to you, but extensive collections on counters and furniture tops do tend to make the house look cluttered. A few particularly nice photos and artistic pieces are probably all that you need display while you are selling.

Rearrange and organize. Remove as many articles as possible from the kitchen and bathroom countertops to the cupboards below. They'll still be within handy reach in the newly created space. Organize closets. Clear off your nightstands and bureaus. Size up the arrangement of your furniture: any room for improvement there?

Then examine your walls and windows. Do they need repainting or new coverings? For some expert, objective advice, have your real estate agent go through the home. Agents know what enhances a property's appearance — and what hinders it.

One last hint: Don't forget the outside. Sweep the garage and sidewalks, trim the lawn and bushes, wash all the windows, inside and out. It all helps to make your home look fresher, lighter — and larger.

The Prudential New Jersey Realty Degnan Boyle Division is an independently owned and operated member of The Prudential Real Estate Affiliates Inc. PREA is the nation's largest and fastest growing real estate network with more than 1,300 sales offices throughout the United States and Canada with more than 31,000 sales agents and 1994 sales of $52.4 billion.

Welcome aboard

Larry Mueller, right, regional vice president of Weichert Realtors, welcomes Ronald DePiro upon his appointment as manager of Weichert's Caldwell/West Orange area office. DePiro brings extensive, all-around real estate experience to the company. Weichert's Caldwell/West Orange area office is at 460 Prospect Ave., in West Orange. The phone number is 731-6064.

Home buyers can now shop for mortgage

Prospective home buyers can now shop for a mortgage as well as a house in the Coldwell Banker Schlott Realtors sales office.

Every Coldwell Banker Schlott office now offers on-site mortgage counseling and computerized loan organization through the Home Mortgage Network. A multi-lender mortgage broker, the Home Mortgage Network offers a variety of competing loan programs from local, regional and national lenders.

"A person who wants to buy a home no longer has to make several phone calls to different lenders in an effort to find the best mortgage," said Bob Becker, president and chief executive officer of Coldwell Banker Schlott Realtors. "We can offer them one single data base to compare lenders as well as the expertise of a full-time mortgage specialist to help the buyer choose and apply for a loan. It's a very consumer-friendly service."

Mortgage services offered in Coldwell Banker Schlott offices include:

- A full-time mortgage expert to discuss the different kinds of loan programs available and help the buyer determine the most suitable price range.

- A single data base comparison of many different loan programs from several competing lenders. Home buyers can choose the loan program with the interest rate, terms and features that is best for their financing situation.

- Help in filling out the mortgage application. The application fee is no more than if the buyer were to apply directly to the lender for a loan.

- A full-time mortgage expert to help with any problems and make sure the loan is ready for the closing date.

The electronic loan origination system works with mortgage lenders much as a travel agent works with the airline industry. Consumers rarely call an airline directly; they call a travel agent for comparison of flights and services, expert advice in choosing a flight and help in ticketing. As with a travel agent, it makes no difference to mortgage counselors which loan is selected; their objective is to help consumers get the best loan for their particular needs.

An independent joint venture of Coldwell Banker and PNC Mortgage, the Home Mortgage Network is a multi-lender mortgage loan broker, licensed by the New Jersey Banking Commission.

Coldwell Banker Schlott Realtors has 100 offices in the New York metropolitan area. Coldwell Banker has more than 2,400 offices and more than 57,000 sales associates in North America.

Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below. Please see about: Lower Downpayments • Lower Monthly Payments • Other Options
For purchase prices up to $253,937, monthly mortgage payments (principal + interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 7.125% with 3 points, A.P.R. 7.431%. As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $673.72. For purchase prices from $253,938 to $625,000, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 7.375% with 3 points on a "Jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 7.685%. An example of a $500,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $3,453.38. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowners association dues for a condominium purchase. Interest rates quoted are as of Sept. 8, 1995, and subject to change. ## '96 Ford trucks offer rugged durability as well as value

Following a major redesign for the 1995 model year that brought significant appearance, handling and safety improvements, the 1996 Ford Explorer is primed for a sixth year as the best-selling sport utility vehicle in the United States.

Helping Explorer achieve that goal will be the first-time availability of a V-8 engine. A 5.0-liter V-8 is available on four-door XLT 4x2 models equipped with a four-speed automatic transmission, while the 4.0-liter V-6 with automatic transmission remains the standard powertrain.

Along with the expanded engine lineup, Explorer provides unmatched ride, handling, comfort and versatility — and lit remains the leading vehicle in its class with standard dual air bags to supplement the safety belts. Other safety features include a four-wheel anti-lock braking system with disc brakes on all models, rear-seat head restraints, and a cross-car safety beam. An integrated child seat is available on four-door models.

Another safety boost comes from Explorer's sophisticated Control Trac four-wheel-drive system, which automatically engages when it senses that any wheel is slipping.

The Limited model will add an elegant new exterior color, as Ivory Pearlescent Clearcoat joins the lineup. Eddie Bauer models also get a new two-tone color — light saddle metallic replaces pumice as the accent color.

1991 FORD RANGER

Ford Ranger maintains the value, toughness, good looks and wide choice of models that have made it America's best-selling compact pickup truck for nine straight years.

And for 1996, Ranger becomes the first compact pickup with an optional passenger-side air bag to supplement the safety belt and complement it standard driver-side air bag. The optional air bag has an added child-safety feature that's a first in the US auto industry. The passenger system can be switched off when a rear-facing infant seat is in place.

As another customer benefit, the 2.3-liter, four-cylinder engine joins the 3.0-liter V-6 and the 4.0-liter V-6 engines with 100,000-mile intervals between tune-up under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes.

The 1996 Ranger lineup includes two- and four-wheel-drive XL and XLT and four-wheel-drive STX Regular Cab and SuperCab versions.

The Flareside pickup box, previously available only on Ranger Splash, may be ordered on a number of XL and XLT models as well.

Privacy glass is included on the rear sliding and quarter windows of XLT and Splash SuperCab models and is optional on the STX SuperCab. Privacy-glass pivoting rear quarter windows are optional on the XLT, STX and Splash SuperCab models equipped with the sliding rear window.

1996 Ford Windstar

Already highly regarded for its contemporary design, interior roominess, and car-like ride, handling and quietness, the Ford Windstar minivan adds even more customer-pleasing features for 1996.

Upgrades to Windstar's 3.8-liter V-6 engine now produce 200 horsepower, making it the most powerful engine available in any minivan. The big increase — up 45 horsepower from the 1995 version of the engine — results from a new Split Port Induction system. This engine is standard on the Windstar LX and optional on the GL model.

Windstar for 1996 also is the only minivan to offer All-Speed Electronic Traction Control with four-wheel disc brakes. Traction Control provides better traction on slippery surfaces, with superior control and steerability. This feature is available on the 3.8-liter engine Windstar. Four-wheel disc brakes also are available with the trailer towing package.

Windstar's cargo-carrying capacity has been increased, without affecting towing capacity. Gross cargo weight, GCW, on 3.8-liter vehicles equipped with the trailer tow prep package is 8,500 pounds, which is 1,000 pounds greater than the 1995 model's capacity.

For 1996, a 3.0-liter V-6 engine and a four-speed automatic overdrive transmission are standard on GL models. Both the 3.0- and 3.8-liter engines have 100,000-mile tune-up intervals under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes.

The versatility of Windstar's seven-passenger seating configurations is expanded for 1996. Low-back front and second-row cloth bucket seats will be introduced during the 1996 model year as an option on the GL model. These seats already are available on the LX in either cloth or leather seating surfaces. When both the second and third seats on the GL are bench style, an optional seat/bed feature allows the seats to be folded down to form a convenient bed.

Windstar has more than 40 standard safety features, including dual air bags to supplement the safety belts, four-wheel anti-lock braking system, three-point safety belts for all outboard seating positions, side impact intrusion beams and a sliding door child safety lock. New for 1996 are an Automatic Locking Retractor/Emergency Locking Retractor feature for all outer passenger seating positions, which eliminates the need for cinch clips when an aftermarket child's seat is utilized, and an auto lock/relock feature that is included with optional remote entry and keyless entry packages.

AAA warns that good brakes are essential

The AAA New Jersey Automobile Club reminds motorists that good brakes are crucial to keeping a vehicle under control when driving on snow or ice-covered roads this winter.

"Brake components that are badly worn or a brake system in need of hydraulic fluid may not provide the responsive control needed for safe winter driving," said Rick Town, assistant vice president of automotive services for the Florham Park based Club.

"Have your brakes checked annually by a qualified technician as part of a broader maintenance and safety inspection. And since brakes can't be thoroughly inspected without removing the wheels, be sure to request this service."

The same friction that brakes use to stop a vehicle's wheels also causes brake components to wear out and need replacement. By practicing good driving habits, motorists can make their brakes last longer and reduce repair expenses. When stopping, slow the vehicle gradually instead of stopping suddenly. It's a good idea not to ride your brakes on steep hills. Downshifting helps slow the car and limits the amount of braking that's needed.

"Often the first sign of worn brakes is a brake pedal that seems to require more pressure to stop the vehicle," explains Town. "Scraping, squeaking or chirping noises that come from the wheels when the brakes are applied, are other signs of potentially excessive brake wear. If your vehicle pulls to the left or right when you apply the brakes, it could mean trouble."

AAA's Town recommends conducting the following spot-checks for proper brake system maintenance: Master Cylinder- Brake fluid reservoir should be checked periodically to ensure proper fluid level. Brake Lines- Steel brake tubing running from the master cylinder to all four wheels should be inspected for leaks caused by damage or rust. Brake hoses- Rubber brake hoses running from the brake lines to the brake calipers and wheel cylinders should be inspected for wear and cracking.

Linings and Pads- Brake components that create friction and dissipate heat should be checked for uneven or excessive wear. Glazing or saturation from brake fluid or grease are other potential problems.

Bearings and Seals- Wheel bearings should be inspected and lubricated as part of an annual brake check. Seals should be inspected for proper fit.

Parking Brake- Emergency or parking brake should be inspected and, if necessary, adjusted.

Owner's manuals usually begin by describing various components in the vehicle, followed by procedures on how to start and operate the car or truck and its various controls.

Vehicle specifications usually are listed for items including: fuel tank capacity; spark plug gap; engine, transmission and brake type; suspension; and steering system.

"Reading and following the instructions in the owner's manual will contribute to prolonged vehicle life and trouble-free operation," Town added.
